Air Force-Industry Relations on The West Coast

BY MAJ. GEN. WILLIAM M. MORGAN,
USAF
Commanding, Western Air Procurement
District

NO commentary, however brief, on the subject of relationships between the Air Force and the industrial communities on the West Coast would be quite complete without some mention of the fabulous rise to maturity as a major industry of the business of manufacturing military aircraft. Worthy of mention is the fact that the epic rise was in a large sense a joint venture by industry and the military services—not the least the Air Force.

It is therefore only reasonable that the interest of the Air Force in the aircraft industry, being paternal in nature, would develop and foster a relationship with a depth of understanding found only where family ties exist.

Maj. Gen. Morgan

Just prior to entry of the United States into the late World War, the aircraft industry already had in abundance the technological skills, the vision, and the courage to seize upon the fifty thousand plane program, but it needed material support and extra physical capacity to mass produce to these hitherto undreamed of proportions. The airframe manufacturers—a fair half of which are concentrated upon the West Coast—with the collateral support of related industries did attain the desired goal and far more. This achievement will stand, at once, as an enduring monument to American resourcefulness and to mark the advent of a partnership unique in business history wherein military and industrial managements worked side by side to achieve a common aim—American Air Supremacy.

In more than a decade of this uninhibited mutuality, many important gains have been recorded in all phases of materiel procurement, and more particularly in the field of human relations in business. Much of the success of this dual management concept stems from the realization that back of the facts and figures the research and development and the production are people;—people just like folks in any other walks of life. Working with people has become the principal feature of the business process and creates the basic need for

Army Announces 300 Promotions To Captain; 50 to Col.; 147 to Lt. Col.

The Army this week released the names of 300 first lieutenants promoted to the temporary rank of captain and was preparing to announce about 240 promotions to major as THE JOURNAL went to press.

These promotions follow the first increment of advancements to captain and major from current selection board action—202 to captain and 441 to major, reported in last week's issue of THE JOURNAL.

Also announced this week were 147 temporary promotions to lieutenant colonel from the eligibility list and 50 promotions to colonel. There were also 15 promotions of chaplains to temporary major.

The promotions announced this week are published on page 1010.

Only 85 Out Of 800 Holloway Plan Grads Elect to Take Careers in Regular Navy

The Navy's much-publicized "Holloway Plan" has fallen short of one of its major objectives, THE JOURNAL learned this week, and probably will be called to the attention of Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson as a striking example of the manner in which deteriorating benefits are hampering the Armed Services in their efforts to obtain and hold career personnel.

A Defense Department committee headed by Rear Adm. J. P. Womble, jr., only recently was ordered by Secretary Wilson to look into the problems which are causing a military career to lose its attractiveness. When the committee completes its work it can be expected to point to the Holloway Plan as tangible proof that the difficulties are serious.

Named for Vice Adm. James L. Holloway, present Chief of Naval Personnel, the Holloway Plan was designed primarily to provide the Navy with large numbers of career officers. However, the Navy revealed this week that the first Holloway graduates to be commissioned—about 800 in all—are now completing their final year of obligated service and only 85 of the group have signified that they wish to stay on as permanent officers. All those not requesting permanent retention will have to be transferred into the Naval Reserve and released to inactive duty unless they specifically ask for temporary continuation on the active list.

Rear Adm. J. F. Bolger, Deputy Chief of Naval Personnel, (one of the members of the Womble committee), has said that unless effective efforts are made to retain the Holloway officers in a career status "The future of the Regular NROTC Program (the Holloway Plan) itself is at stake."

Since 1946, under the terms of the Holloway Plan, the Navy has provided free, four-year college scholarships (including subsistence) to about 10,000 high school graduates throughout the country. Upon graduation the students are commissioned in the Regular Navy and required to serve for three years on active duty. Prior to the end of the three year period, they must indicate whether they desire to be retained as permanent officers.

Dr. Hannah Asks College Plan for Army, USAF

Assistant Secretary of Defense John A. Hannah yesterday recommended a "Holloway Plan" for the Army and Air Force.

In his first major public address since taking over the manpower and personnel reins of the Defense Department, Dr. Hannah said the United States military manpower pool will be exhausted "in about 30 months," if current commitments and regulations continue in effect. Thereafter, he said, the Services will have to look to career personnel and inadequate numbers of enlistees and draftees to maintain their strength.

"Even if we can greatly increase the re-enlistment rate," he told a convention of The American Society of Newspaper Editors, "we will not then have available anywhere near the number now in service."

Need College Plan

For that reason, Secretary Hannah said, it will be necessary to develop "a more reliable system for providing adequate numbers of junior officers for the Army and the Air Force." He stated that "the only feasible plan is to give the Army and the Air Force the advantages of a system something like that employed for many years to train junior officers for the Navy."

The Assistant Secretary declared that such a plan "would allow a desirable pre-selection of officer candidates, and entail their subsidization while going through college and compulsory service for a period of years after commissioning. It would have tremendous advantages, advantages from which the Navy has benefited greatly." Congress, he said, "is being asked to authorize this plan for the training of officer candidates, and we are hopeful that it will win approval at this session."

Doctor, Dentist Draft

The doctor and dentist draft was another "acute problem" mentioned by Secretary Hannah. He noted that legislation under which medical men are being

AF Promotions Listed To Three Temp. Ranks

On schedule, the Air Force announced on 15 April temporary promotions to colonel, lieutenant colonel and major and reported simultaneously that additional promotions from recommended lists are scheduled tentatively for 8 May and 1 June.

THE JOURNAL publishes in this issue about 178 promotions to colonel and 382 selections to that rank; about 350 promotions to lieutenant colonel and 700 selections to that rank; and 375 promotions to major from the eligibility list, which was published in full in the issue of 4 April.

The 4 April issue included also the names of 5600 Air Force lieutenants promoted to temporary captain and 1700 promoted to major, plus about 1000 on the eligibility list to major.

This means that for the ranks of colonel, lieutenant colonel, major and captain, the Air Force has promoted or selected for later promotion a total of about 560 to colonel, 1050 to lieutenant colonel, 2700 to major, and 5600 to captain—or a grand total of approximately 9910.

Almost all of the promotions to major, lieutenant colonel and colonel will be made before the end of the fiscal year on 30 June. Those remaining will be made

ROKs Drive Reds Off Hill; Down 11 MiGs

Relentless South Korean troops waged a bloody, see-saw battle on the central front east of Pukhan River for possession of the outpost "Texas." Determined ROK forces eventually drove the Reds off the height Sunday and held control of it after the hill had changed hands 12 times during the previous week.

Ground fighting elsewhere along the 155-mile front was relatively calm. Poor weather hampered aerial attacks to a degree, but Sabres over MiG Alley continued to blast Communist jets from the sky. And for the first time, the high-speed Sabre jets were employed as fighter-bombers, devastating a big Red troop concentration in western Korea. Throughout the week, regular fighter-bombers prowled enemy installations in North Korea, pounding supply areas and communications lines.

All in all during the week, Sabres shot down 11 MiGs, probably shot down another, and damaged three. In the bombing raid conducted by the Sabres, 22 buildings were destroyed and huge fires set. The experiment was described as a complete success. On the ground, the only action of any consequence other than the struggle for outpost Texas was on the western front where Marines beat off several attacks by the enemy against outpost Carson, another height named after a Nevada city. Enemy probes at Little Gibraltar and southwest of Little Gibraltar overlooking the Imjim River also were repulsed.

On Tuesday, an out-numbered patrol of the British first Commonwealth Division charged through an encirclement and escaped certain annihilation. The Communists were drawing the circle tighter, and the British patrol found itself in a desperate situation until its dash for freedom proved successful.

Meanwhile, on Monday, 16-inch guns of the battleship New Jersey and bombs of 75 planes from two U. S. aircraft carriers demolished half of Chongjin, the key northeast port 55 miles from Russian territory. The strike by the New Jersey was her first since returning to Korean waters. The carriers were identified as the Philippine Sea and the Oriskany.

During the week, Headquarters of the Far East Air Force released the following statistics showing damaged inflicted on the enemy by FEAF planes:

"Figures for all FEAF aircraft during 1 Jan. through 31 Mar. show 7,505 vehicles destroyed, 2,186 buildings destroyed and 605 damaged, 1,112 troop casualties inflicted, 1,515 road cuts and 916 rail cuts made, 702 rail cars destroyed and 1,049 damaged, 311 bunkers destroyed and 1,786 damaged, 83 locomotives destroyed and 102 damaged, 343 supply dumps destroyed and 138 damaged, 136 bridges destroyed and 254 damaged, 11 tanks destroyed and 10 damaged, 69 gun positions silenced and 1,666 damaged.

"Friendly aircraft losses for the three-month period totaled 55, with 18 being lost in March. These 18 include two F-86's air-to-air, six F-84's and one ROK F-51 to enemy ground fire, and two F-84's, one ROK F-51, three Meteorjets and three Marine AD's lost to other causes.

"The 55 aircraft lost during the three-month period were as follows:

"Air-to-air: Six F-86's and three B-29's. "Enemy groundfire: Five F-80's, two AD's, nine F-84's, two F-9F's, one F-4U, one F-51 (ROK), and three AU's.

Other causes: One RF-80, one F-80, seven F-84's, four B-26's, one F-86, five MK-8's, three AD's, and one F-51 (ROK)."

Navy Board to Name Lt's

A board to select Navy lieutenant (jg)s for promotion to lieutenant is expected to be announced by the Bureau of Personnel next week. Present indications are that the board will be convened during May.

Air Transport Sqdn. C. O.

Lt. Col. John L. Folts has been named commanding officer of the 33d Air Transport Squadron at McChord AFB, Wash. He replaces Maj. Charles W. Harris.

WELCOME GENERAL. Lt. Gen. Paul W. Kendall, (left) I Corps Commander, greets the new 7th Infantry Division Commander, Maj. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau, who only recently went to Korea to assume command of the "Fighting 7th." General Trudeau formerly commanded the 1st Cavalry Division in Japan.

To Consider Exchanges

The question of whether to launch another investigation of Army and Air Force Exchanges will be taken up by a subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee next Wednesday, 22 April, Chairman William E. Hess (R-Ohio) told THE JOURNAL this week.

At that time the Subcommittee will have before it protests made by American Retail Federation that a survey made for them by the market research firm of Gerson-Chastka Associates reveals widespread violations of PX regulations. The Federation seeks further restrictions on Exchange activities.

Congressman Who Was WWI Pilot Calls Air Power Symbol of Military Might

Air power is the great symbol of military might today, Representative Leroy Johnson (R-Calif.), a member of the Armed Services Committee, declared this week in a speech before the Aviation Writers' Association in Washington, D. C.

Although air attacks in Korea have proved costly to the enemy, Representative Johnson said, this phase of the conflict has put the Air Force in a false light. "Air strikes have destroyed tremendous amounts of enemy equipment," he said, "but have been inordinately costly in comparison with other targets which, if destroyed, would have raised havoc with the enemy's campaign, if not paralyzed it."

The importance of air power has grown so greatly since World War I that it now is the spearhead of defense, Representative Johnson stated.

Air In All Branches

"The great symbol of military power in the world today is air power," he said. "That is true in all the branches of the military services. The Air Force uses this particular type of warfare exclusively. But the Army uses it for a variety of purposes: to attack ground troops; to destroy supply and ammunition trains as well as supply depots near the fighting front; to cover and protect those making an amphibious attack; to spot targets and to furnish data to our artillery gunners during an attack; to take photos of troop concentrations, location of depots, command posts, etc.; and very important in modern war, to carry the Airborne Troops to the area where they are to be dropped behind the enemy lines for an attack against him.

"The battle of Midway showed that air power is what makes seapower powerful and modern. Enemy carriers and battleships will never see nor engage each other directly. Their spearheads in the form of fighter planes and attack bombers will engage one another hundreds of miles in front of the fleet."

In discussing NATO forces in Europe,

Air Force Officer Advocates Single Logistics Force for All Three Services

A proposal that a single, unified logistics force take care of all procurement and supply matters for the ground, sea and air forces is proposed by an Air Force officer, Lt. Col. John A. Mathews, in the "Military Review" published by the Command and General Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kans.

Colonel Mathews is chief of the program and control division, directorate of engineering, Japan Air Defense Force.

Supreme Chief of Staff

Colonel Mathews' plan calls for the appointment of a supreme chief of staff, supported by a general staff without other duties, to direct four principal forces, land combat force, air combat force, sea combat force and a logistics force. The logistics force would relieve the combat forces of all logistics matters and thus allow them complete freedom to fight. A single system of personnel administration is also advocated "to inspire fealty to the whole, above fealty to the parts."

It is Colonel Mathews' belief that the Joint Chiefs of Staff organization, designed to lessen interservice friction, has not been sufficiently successful and that costly duplications in supply still exist. In this opinion he quotes from minority reports of the Hoover Commission on the National Security Organization.

A single procurement and distribution command is also advocated by Colonel Mathews. More than five years ago this process began with establishment of the Armed Services Petroleum Medical Procurement Agency and the Armed Services Petroleum Purchasing Agency, first steps in the unification of procurement.

Greater Flexibility

Using the Ordnance Corps as an example, Colonel Mathews says: "The relatively inflexible allocation of supplies among the military forces as now practiced would be replaced with a more flexible stock-transfer system based upon department-wide priority. A single system of depots . . . could replace the cumbersome . . . independent systems now managed by various procurement and distribution agencies."

Transportation facilities under a single transportation command also would effect a savings, according to Colonel Mathews, who outlines a single traffic control agency and stresses savings in manpower.

Proposed consolidations, as charted by Colonel Mathews, are carried all the way through in the Department of Defense. Commands for communications, weather, finance, health, justice, recruiting and services, including mapping, welfare, schools, religious services, banking, laundry and other ordinary utilities and services, would operate at a vast savings, if controlled through a single logistic force paralleling the three present forces, Army, Navy, and Air, which could then be freed of logistical matters.

Author's Background

Colonel Mathews served in the office of the chief of ordnance from 1940 to 1945. In 1946 he was assigned to the Logistics Division of the War Department General Staff.

He was transferred to the Air Force in 1948, with assignment to a special weapons group. In 1950 he attended the Logistics Officers' School, Air University, Maxwell AFB, Ala. He later served as Deputy Chief Logistics Division, 1009th Special Weapons Squadron. He arrived in Japan on 16 Nov. 1951 and served as wing deputy for materiel at an air base near Tokyo, until reassigned to this headquarters 29 July 1952.

Colonel Mathews is a graduate of the University of Maryland, 1928, with a Bachelor of Science degree in electrical engineering. In 1930 he took his master's degree in the same major at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Subsequently he accomplished graduate work at Georgetown University.

His wife, Mrs. Helen W. Mathews, and three children are with him in Japan. They formerly lived at 210 North Columbus St., Arlington, Va.

USAF Promotions

early in fiscal year 1954.

The promotions to lieutenant colonel include the name of Maj. George A. Davis, jr., who has been missing in action since 10 Feb. 1952 after having shot down 14 enemy planes, 11 of them MiGs to add to his seven Japanese aircraft shot down in WWII.

On the selection list to lieutenant colonel is the name of Maj. William G. Draper, Air Force aide and pilot for President Eisenhower. When he receives his promotion, all of the White House aides will hold the same relative rank. At the present time, however, Major Draper is outranked by Lt. Col. Robert L. Schulz, USA, and Comdr. Edward L. Beach, USN.

The major commands announced the temporary promotions to captain. The advancements to the other ranks were announced at USAF Headquarters.

Korea Disabled

Nearly 44,000 veterans are drawing compensation for disabilities incurred or aggravated by service since 27 June 1950, the Veterans Administration has reported.

In addition, VA has awarded compensations for 33,310 widows, children or dependent parents on behalf of 17,551 veterans whose deaths were due to service since June 1950.

The VA also is making 10,502 monthly payments to beneficiaries of veterans whose death was due to service since the outbreak of the Korean war. Nearly 5000 of these indemnity payments were for less than $10,000 because the veterans were partially covered by either National Service Life Insurance of Government Life Insurance.

Of the nearly 44,000 Korean disabled veterans, with compensation disabilities more than 3000 are receiving vocational training in schools and colleges, on-the-job and on-the-farm under Federal law.

AF Industry Relations

coordination in human terms. Now, for the second time in the past dozen years, the pulse of production of military aircraft on the West Coast has quickened. With a backlog of orders in excess of seven and a half billion dollars, employing over three hundred thousand persons whose weekly pay checks total twenty-five billion, the aircraft industry on the West Coast is again busily occupied in producing its share of aircraft and equipment for the Air Force. In the program to procure the plant and substance for a 143 combat wing Air Force, it is natural that contracts for actual aircraft and component parts should dominate the dollar volume, but the industrial area is currently producing a highly diversified range of items and services directly related to the program. To properly manage and administer this vast volume of procurement; to assure an orderly flow of material in the quantities, the qualities, and at the times required, and to pay the bills, is roughly the mission of the Western Air Procurement District serving the seven Western States. The organization of the Western District includes approximately two thousand military and civilian personnel with the preponderance being civilian specialists located in the Los Angeles headquarters and dispersed throughout six Air Regional and eight Plant offices ranging from Seattle to San Diego to Tucson.

These field organizations are staffed with many career specialists who have been identified with production of military aircraft on the West Coast for many years. These people are specialists in many phases of administration of Government contracts, including quality control, production, accounting, finance, law, industrial management, manpower, and many others. Their knowledge and experience fit them admirably to work with industrial managements to insure that terms and conditions of Air Force contracts are fulfilled as expeditiously as possible in terms of economy, conservation of time, materials, manpower, and the utilization of new methods and processes. The personnel of the Western Air Procurement District and Industrial management representatives have long followed the practice of getting together on matters of common application and adjusting their problems as they occur with a liberal use of business common sense. Great forward strides in understanding and human relations have been registered through a constant coordination with the very able and effective Aircraft Industries Association which is the unified and authoritative voice of the industry on the West Coast. The Western office of this agency has often provided the forum for adjustments of understanding between industry and military managements as well as to provide a coordination medium on matters of regulations, procedures, and policy for implementing directives effectively and without friction.

The Air Force working with the large West Coast aircraft manufacturers and component parts suppliers have encouraged maximum utilization of the small business firms to maintain the broadest possible industrial base for Air Force procurement. The Western Air Procurement District operates "small business" offices strategically dispersed throughout the area of its jurisdiction. These offices are designed and staffed to offer counsel and assistance to the smaller members of the industrial community. They furnish bid information, including pending procurements, and make available all services incident to Air Force procurement, short of actual contracting. Potential subcontractors are able to secure all the facts about Air Force contracts and to receive forms and instruction for submitting cost proposals on pending procurements.

The Western Air Procurement District maintains a close and cordial relationship with the very progressive and effective Chambers of Commerce. In Los Angeles last year, in cooperation with the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the Western District induced numbers of prime contractors in the aircraft industry to hold a large public exhibit displaying hundreds of parts and sub-assemblies for which subcontractors were needed. Many of the smaller business firms found it possible and practical to participate in the defense program as subcontractors, thus giving additional people employment in the area. The Air Force offices continually offer expert assistance to contractors and subcontractors in locating critical materials, manpower production machinery, expansion of physical resources, and in securing needed financial assistance. The latter, involving responsibilities for certificates of necessity and guaranteed loans, brings the Air Force into a close working relationship with the banking fraternity and the large commercial banks on the West Coast.

The Western Air Procurement District management groups working with industrial groups are so versatile as to actually function in all phases of industrial management and simultaneously to fulfill all the requirements of an Air Force military operation.

Its position in the local community is one of belonging; of being an integral and respected part of the local community which brings it, as the United States Air Force, into intimate and active contact with civic groups, industry organizations, banks, universities, and into just about every phase of community life. The community accepts the people who comprise the Western Air Procurement District not as the Air Force—a collective "thing"—an impersonal label—but as people who work and live with other people to literally form the community. It is in such an atmosphere that the people of the Air Force live, raise their families, attend church and PTA, vote in civic elections and take part in all community life to become good friends, good neighbors and good Americans.

Ammo Funds Decided By "Higher Authority"

The Senate Armed Services committee investigating charges of ammunition shortages in Korea heard testimony this week from Army witnesses, and were reminded by Lt. Gen. G. H. Decker, Army Comptroller, that Army budgets "are computed to reflect requirements based upon assumptions and objectives established by higher authority."

The final amount decided upon by Executive authority, he said, "must be supported by Army witnesses when they appear before Congressional Committees." He noted that budgetary guidance furnished the Army since September 1950 has included an assumption that the fighting in Korea would end "prior to the beginning of the Fiscal Year to which the budget pertained."

Funds Come Too Late

The restriction imposed by that assumption brought about two consequences "of prime significance," he said. "First, the major importance of lead-time was subordinated to budgetary considerations, and hence most of the total funds made available for ammunition came too late to materially affect deliveries of ammunition in 1952. Second, budgeting for Korean consumption on an after the fact basis has retarded the Army in building up its world wide reserve of ammunition."

At present, General Decker said, ammunition is being produced in quantities sufficient to supply the needs of troops in Korea and "partially to build up our general reserve." Whether or not Korea continues, he said, our future position "will depend upon appropriations being made available in amounts sufficient to keep the necessary facilities in operation for some time in the future."

No Scarcity For Troops

Lt. Gen. W. B. Palmer, Army Assistant Chief of Staff, G-4, testified that "At no time during this war have stocks in the Far East Command approached exhaustion." He said it seems agreed that "There has never been a scarcity of ammunition for troops in the front lines. General Van Fleet stated this proposition unequivocally; there is no disagreement with his view."

Such shortages as developed, he said, "were in Far East reserve stocks or in the pipeline from the United States to the Far East. There has been no general shortage of ammunition in Far East stocks. Five rounds, plus five hand grenades, have been specified as short."

General Palmer added that "despite

Promote Army Generals

President Eisenhower this week nominated Maj. Gen. John E. Dahlquist, CG of the Fourth Army at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., to be a lieutenant general.

At the same time, the President named eight Army brigadier generals to be temporary major generals. They are:

Harry Reichelderfer, Chief, Army Security Agency;

Frank A. Allen, jr., Dep Director, Continental U. S. Defense Planning Gp;

David A. D. Ogden, CG, Ryukyus Command;

Arthur W. Pence, CG, 6th Armored (Training) Division, Ft. L. Wood, Mo.; Bernard L. Robinson, Deputy Chief of Engineers;

Eugene W. Ridings, Dep Ch of Staff (adv) USAFFE;

Thomas J. H. Trapnell, Chief, MAAG Indo-China; and

Leander LaC. Doan, CG, 1st Armd Div, Ft. Hood, Tex.

General Doan replaces Maj. Gen. Bruce Clarke, ordered to Korea to command I Corps.

In addition to the nominations to lieutenant general and major general, the President asked the Senate to confirm the promotion of the following colonels to be temporary brigadier generals. Those with an asterisk before their names are permanent lieutenant colonels.

UNITED STATES ARMY

Shift Five Generals

Maj. Gen. James C. Fry, CG of the 2d Infantry Division in Korea, who was previously designated to command the 9th Infantry (Training) Division at Fort Dix, N. J., instead will be temporarily assigned to the Office of the Army Chief of Staff.

Maj. Gen. Cornelius E. Ryan, Chief of the Korean Military Advisory Group, has been named to succeed Maj. Gen. Homer W. Kiefer as CG of the 9th Infantry (Training) Division. General Kiefer has been given a new assignment in the U. S. European Command, and will leave for his new post sometime in May.

Brig. Gen. Alfred E. Kastner, Artillery, Commander of the 1st Armored Division at Fort Hood, Tex., has been transferred to the U. S. Army Forces in the Far East. He will take up his new duties about the middle of May.

Brig. Gen. Sam F. Seeley, Chief of Surgical Services at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, Washington, D. C., has been assigned to the U. S. Army, Europe effective about the middle of August.

Frank Pace Elected

Former Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, jr., was elected a board member this week of the Carriers & General Corporation, a closed-end investment company under Calvin Bullock management.

NEW PSY-WAR CHIEF. Brig. Gen. William C. Bullock (left) recently named Chief of Army Psychological Warfare, confers with Col. Charles H. Karlstad, Commanding Officer of the Psychological Warfare Center, Ft. Bragg, N. C., during an inspection visit at the Center last week. General Bullock, currently serving as Commander of Troops at the atomic maneuvers, is scheduled to assume his new duties shortly. He replaces Brig. Gen. Robert B. McClure, who has been assigned to the U. S. Military Advisory Group to Iran.

Army Nurse In Rio

Capt. Elizabeth E. Angell, ANC, arrived in Rio de Janeiro on 1 April to assume duty with the U. S. Army Section of the Joint U. S.-Brazil Military Commission, and adviser to the Brazilian Army Medical Corps. Prior to this assignment, Captain Angell was at Camp Carson, Colo.

Annual Meeting Hears Report On Army Mutual Aid Assn.

The 74th annual meeting of the Army Mutual Aid Association was held in the Pentagon on 14 April when reports for 1952 were presented and approved.

The First Vice-President, Maj. Gen. Glen E. Edgerton, presided and read the report of the Board of Directors, stating among other favorable factors that the mortality rate of the Association for the year 1952 was lower than for the past four years and next to the lowest in the past 12 years.

The reports of the Secretary and of the Treasurer showed a gain in memberships of 470 and total membership of 14,723 members. The assets of the Association on 31 Dec. 1952 were shown to be $12,800,000.

At the present time, the Army Mutual Aid Association is accepting applications from Regular Army Officers stationed in the Western Hemisphere who have completed three years' service in the U. S. Army or who have completed one tour of foreign service since being commissioned in the United States Army.

The officers for the succeeding year are:

General Wade H. Haislip, President; Maj. Gen. Glen E. Edgerton, First Vice-President, and Maj. Gen. Edwin P. Parker, Second Vice-President.

The other Directors are: Lt. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, Maj. Gen. Paul J. Mueller, Maj. Gen. Carl A. Hardigg, and Maj. Gen. Ernest M. Brannon.

Executive Vice-President is Col. Richard D. LaGarde; Secretary, Maj. Kenneth F. Hanst, jr., and Treasurer, Col. John P. Dinsmore.

K-9 CONSCIOUSNESS

The Army estimates it will save more than $2,000,000 in salaries each year by using a platoon of Military Sentry Dogs to guard military installations and warehouses in the Caribbean area.

The K-9 unit, 29 dogs and 22 handlers, commanded by Lt. Chalmer O. Burket, left Camp Kilmer, N. J., on 18 April. The platoon, the first fully equipped and organized group of its type, has been in training at Camp Carson, Colo., since November 1952.

In Kobe, Japan, sentry dogs and handlers replaced an entire Infantry battalion.

The platoon's tables of equipment include dog gas masks, toe nail clippers, and one kennel for each dog.

Honor Gen. DeCoursey

Brig. Gen. Elbert DeCoursey, AMC, was elected treasurer this week of the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists. He is the second military man ever to hold office in that organization.

A nuclear fission medical expert, General DeCoursey is a consultant to the Division of Biology and Medicine of the Atomic Energy Commission, and a senior pathologist for the Department of Army.

65th Inf. Regt. Exchanges Personnel with Other Units

The "new" 65th Infantry Regiment, no longer composed predominantly of Puerto Rican personnel, has settled down in earnest on its rugged unit training program, designed to bring the regiment to peak operating efficiency, it was reported from Korea this week.

The necessary changes in personnel, wherein the composition of the regiment became exactly like its sister U. S. regiments instead of almost exclusively Puerto Rican, were completed by the end of March. The adjustment, ordered earlier in the month by Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Commanding General, Eighth Army, was accomplished with speed and a minimum of confusion.

Cadre Personnel

Cadre personnel were furnished the 65th by all U. S. divisions in Korea. This trained group, plus approximately 250 crack Puerto Rican soldiers retained by the 65th, form the hard core around which the present training program revolves. The remainder of the regiment is composed of exchange personnel from other Divisions which incorporated Puerto Rican soldiers into their units, and pipeline replacements.

Puerto Rican soldiers are now being assigned by military skills (military occupational specialties) in accordance with needs of the service, and there are now no U. S. combat units in the theater which are composed exclusively of soldiers from one geographical area.

Reasons For Action

Reasons given for the reconstitution of the regiment were that the adjustment will reduce the effect of heavy rotation of trained leaders, and will permit Eighth Army to achieve greater uniformity in the methods and speed with which its U. S. units are trained.

Col. Chester B. DeGavre of Red Bank, N. J., who fought the regiment through several sharp and successful clashes with the enemy prior to the changeover, retains command.

Commands Burtonwood Gp.

Col. Lawrence F. Loesch has been named commanding officer of the 59th Maintenance Group at Burtonwood AFB, England. Lt. Col. Herbert K. B. Jemmott, who has been serving as Acting CO, resumes his old post as Deputy Commander.

WHAT IS THE TRANSISTOR? It is a tiny electronic device that can do amazing things for you by amplifying electric signals. It requires only a fraction of the power of a vacuum tube. It will be low in cost and last many times longer. Three types of Transistors are shown above, about actual size.

That's the LITTLE GIANT with the Big Future

The Transistor—invented at Bell Telephone Laboratories—opens new doors to far-reaching improvements in telephone service and in other fields

Many important inventions for communications have come from the Bell Telephone Laboratories. Seldom, however, has there been a new discovery with the exciting promise of the Transistor.

This tiny device can amplify electric signals a hundred thousand times. It can do many things that vacuum tubes can do and many more besides. It is something entirely new, and works on entirely new principles.

Because it is so small and rugged, and takes so little power, it can be used in ways and places beyond reach of a vacuum tube.

Invented at the Bell Laboratories to amplify the voice in telephone service, the Transistor is opening new doors of opportunity in other fields.

The Bell System has licensed thirty-eight other companies to make and sell transistors under its patents. This is in accordance with our established policy of making our inventions available to others on reasonable terms. These include makers of advanced equipment for defense, as well as radios, television sets, hearing aids, and a wide range of electronic apparatus.

The Transistor is already being used in the new electronic equipment which enables telephone users to dial Long Distance calls from coast to coast.

It is another example of the value of Bell System research in bringing you more and better telephone service.

NROTC Plan Holds 10%

The group of 800 which is now completing the prescribed three-year period of active duty is the smallest group to be processed under the program. The number will be more than doubled in succeeding years and if the percentage which elects a permanent Naval career continues as small as the current year group, the Plan will more than likely have to be abandoned.

"A basic tenet of the 'Holloway Plan,' according to Admiral Bolger, 'is that the Naval Academy and the Regular NROTC Program will jointly supply the officer strength needed by our postwar Navy.'"

Acute Need For Career Officers

In a recent directive which emphasized "the acute need for career officers from NROTC sources," Admiral Bolger noted that "Navy officer procurement requirements now far exceed the numbers of officers requesting retention."

He said "Because of the limited capacity of the Naval Academy and the need for great numbers of career officers to operate the Navy at its present size, Regular NROTC graduates are currently being commissioned at a ratio of approximately three to one for Naval Academy officers."

The Holloway officers who have already indicated that they do not desire career status "must be encouraged to resubmit requests for retention," Admiral Bolger said. "All those who do not elect to apply for career status at this time should be encouraged to remain on active duty after expiration of their three years of obligated service with a view to requesting transfer to USN status at a later date."

Need Revitalized Program

This latest breakdown in career planning within one of the major services gives added impetus to the already recognized need for a revitalized program of career benefits which will attract and hold competent personnel in the Armed Services. According to observers, the difficulties experienced by the Navy in retaining the Holloway officers are symptomatic of problems which are widespread throughout all branches of the Defense Department.

U. S. NAVY & MARINE CORPS

These problems, as previously noted, are now under study by the Womble Committee, and it can be expected that this group will recommend sound corrective action.

Best Ships Named

Nine ships and craft in the Atlantic Fleet Amphibious Force have been named as best of their type during the second phase of the recent LantPhibEx II-53 maneuvers—largest amphibious training exercises since World War II.

The announcement was made at a top-level critique held at the Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek recently by Vice Adm. F. G. Fahrion, USN, Commander Amphibious Force, U. S. Atlantic Fleet, who had overall supervision of the maneuvers from his flagship, the USS Pocono.

Admiral Fahrion said the top performances were made by the attack transport USS Latimer; the attack cargo ship USS Mulphen; the landing ship, dock USS Donner; the fast attack transport USS Lloyd; the amphibious repair ship USS Krishna; the landing ship tank USS LST 722; the landing ship medium USS LSM 297 and the landing craft utility USS LCU 765.

Rescue of USS Buttercup

The USS Buttercup, which is hit by a bomb every day except Sunday, is the subject of a four-page pictorial feature in the May issue of Pageant Magazine.

The USS Buttercup is a simulated section of a cruiser in a tank at the Philadelphia Naval Base Damage Control School. Students go to work on her as practicing damage control parties every day.

Advertisers in the Army Navy Air Force Journal support the Armed Forces and are familiar with their requirements.

Observe Marine 'Copter

Three top-ranking executives of United Aircraft Corp. visited the Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N. C., last week to observe the 2d Marine Aircraft Wing's use of their helicopters. The visitors were H. M. Horner, president of United, C. J. McCarthy, United vice president, and Bernard Whalen, general manager of the corporation's Sikorsky Division.

About 250 Sikorsky whirlybirds, or more than a fourth of those manufactured by the firm, are in use by the Marines who have already added amphibious landings in Korea, rescue and salvage operations, and other "firsts" to the aircraft's original transport purposes.

The guests were conducted on a tour of Marine Helicopter Group-26 facilities by Lt. Col. Frank H. Collins, group executive officer, before flying in a Sikorsky-made Marine 'copter to the New River (N. C.) Air Facility where Marine Observation Squadron-1 has other helicopters made by the firm in daily use.

'Copter Platform on

Flagship Mt. Olympus

The command flagship USS Mt. Olympus (AGC-8), undergoing repairs at Norfolk Naval Shipyard, this week became the first vessel in the Atlantic Fleet Amphibious Force to have her own helicopter landing platform.

The platform was started and completed during the Mt. Olympus's three-month stay at the shipyard after returning from operations "Mainbrace" and "Longstep."

"Helicopters, playing an increasingly larger role in amphibious assault landings, are expected to aid the flagship in her mission by speeding up communications," the Navy said. The craft also would carry key personnel from the ship to the beachhead area.

Measuring 55 feet wide and 92 feet long, the wooden platform was built on the pier beside the Mt. Olympus. It was then lifted by cranes and fastened atop 15-foot steel beams projecting from the poop deck at the stern. The ship has complete facilities for servicing helicopters, including fuel and spare parts.

The platform will be tested intensively when the Mt. Olympus departs late this month for Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, for a "refresher" training cruise. The vessel, commanded by Capt. Lynne C. Quiggle, USN, serves as flagship for Rear Adm. Rufus E. Rose, USN, Commander Amphibious Group Two.

Outstanding Navy Cad

Ens. Maxwell E. Bublitz, jr., USNR, this week became the fifth recipient of the Daughters of the American Colonists annual award, which is presented to the outstanding naval aviation cadet graduate in the Naval Air Training Command, Pensacola, Fla. The award, presented by Mrs. Nathan R. Patterson, national president of the national society, was for the calendar year 1952.

Comdr. Wilde Selected As New Wave Director

Comdr. Louise Kathleen Wilde (better known to her many friends in the Navy as "Billie") has been named to succeed Capt. Joy Bright Hancock as Director of the Waves, (the appointment was predicted by THE JOURNAL last August).

In making the announcement, the Defense Department said Commander Wilde will report to the Bureau of Naval Personnel about 15 May. Orders were issued this week transferring her to Washington from her present assignment on the staff, Commander, Western Sea Frontier in San Francisco.

To Be Promoted

At 42, Commander Wilde will be the fourth Director of Waves since the women's arm of the Navy was established. She will be promoted to the rank of captain when she takes over her new duties on 1 June, the date of Captain Hancock's retirement.

A graduate of Mount Holyoke College, Commander Wilde also holds a Master of Arts degree from Columbia University. She was assistant to the president of Rockford College, Rockford, Ill., before entering the Navy in 1942. Her Navy assignments have included two tours of duty in the Bureau of Personnel, first as assistant to the first Wave director and later as administrative assistant to Captain Hancock for a four-year period.

From July 1945 to May 1946, she served as District Director of the Women's Reserve at the Fourteenth Naval District in Pearl Harbor, an assignment for which she was awarded the Bronze Star Medal. She also has been awarded a Letter of Commendation from the Secretary of the Navy.

Service in Two Wars

Captain Hancock, who has been Director of the Waves since July 1946, will be retired in the permanent rank of captain. She began her Navy career as a "Yeomanette" in World War I, and was advanced to chief yeoman before being mustered out in 1919. Soon after the establishment of the women's reserve during World War II, she joined the Navy as a lieutenant.

The present Wave Director will leave shortly after her retirement for her home in the Virgin Islands, where she plans to do some creative writing.

Navy Legal Billets

The Navy has announced a program that will permit Naval Reserve lawyers on active duty to transfer to legal specialist billets and remain on active duty.

Reserve lawyers now on active duty but not serving in legal billets may apply under the terms of the program for retention as legal officers for a period of 18 months. If selected, they will be ordered to their new legal billets at the expiration of their present obligated service.

Applicants will be considered by a board to be convened by the Navy Judge Advocate General. Officers selected will normally be ordered to a seven-week course of instruction at the U. S. Naval School (Naval Justice), at Newport, R. I.

Standardize Plane Check

A standard maintenance check sheet for inspecting Navy R6D and Air Force C-118 transport aircraft has been adopted by the Air Force and the Navy. These planes are MATS-Navy and Air Force versions of the Douglas DC-6 used by many American and foreign airlines.

The new check system was formulated so it can be used with identical procedures in inspecting both Navy and Air Force aircraft in MATS, whether the inspection takes place at a Naval Air Station or at a MATS base. Check sheets have been drawn up for pre-flight, thru-flight, post-flight, intermediate flight and major flight inspections.

This is the first time a standardized check procedure has been tried for both services.

The project crew which worked on the new procedures was headed by Mr. G. O. Reese from MATS headquarters, Washington, D. C. Assisting him were: Mr. F. M. Rasmussen, representing the Air Materiel Command; Lt. D. P. Walker, USN, representing the Douglas Aircraft Section from MATS headquarters; Mr. W. J. Nicholas, representing Douglas Aircraft Corporation, and M/Sgt. S. Tumoszczewicz, USAF, from MATS 1254th Air Transport Squadron, National Airport, Washington, D. C.—ground crew chief of the former Presidential airplane, Independence.

GE Beats Jet Quotas

J-47 jet engine production quotas have been met and in some instances exceeded for the past 25 months at General Electric's Gas Turbine Division plant at Lynn, Mass., according to Lt. Col. A. H. Alcott, AF Plant representative.

Colonel Alcott reported that production from this plant has considerably surpassed GE's commitments to the AF since February 1951.

L. T. Callahan, manager of the Division, said, "Factors contributing to the success of GE's production program here include close coordination of parts manufacturing and assembly, and one-run engine strip-testing. GE's one-run testing of jet engines was inaugurated last May, and has resulted in reduced engine tear-down, savings in fuel and labor, and closer quality control with no reduction in safety or quality."

Previously, all jet engines were tested twice before shipment to the AF.

Navy Rensselaer Scholarships

The Navy has announced the availability of the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute Four-year Scholarships offered by trustees of the institute for the year 1953.

The son of a Naval or Marine Corps Regular or Reserve officer, petty officer or non-commissioned officer is eligible. The parent can be either on active duty or retired with pay. Sons of deceased personnel in these categories are also eligible, the Navy said.

Applications must be submitted to the Bureau of Naval Personnel by 1 June 1953.

A selection board of line and engineering officers will be convened to select candidates. They will be considered on the basis of scholarship, leadership traits and participation in extracurricular activities. Those chosen will be required to maintain an average grade of 85 per cent or better. They will be awarded free tuition amounting to $600 a year and will enter with the September 1953 class.

The Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute has advised the Navy that 1953 will be the last year this award will be made available to dependents of Navy and Marine Corps personnel.

Heads Military Bureau

William D. Smith has been named Manager of the Military Service Bureau of Capital Airlines, it is announced by James W. Austin, Vice President of Traffic and Sales for the airline.

Prior to this appointment, Mr. Smith was District Operations Manager for Capital in the Richmond, Va., area. In his new position, he will develop and conduct programs designed to expand the use of airline travel for military personnel.

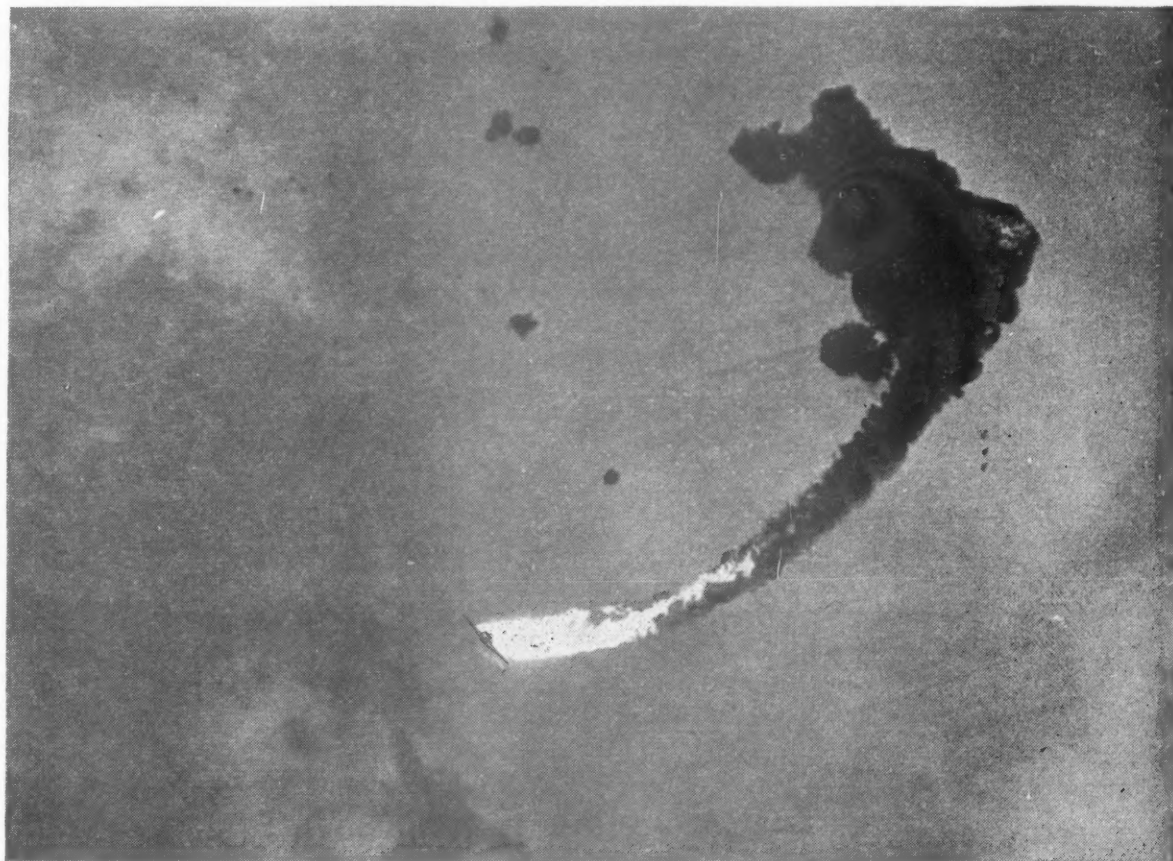

During WW II, he served in the Air Force's Air Transport Command. He is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh as a mining engineer.

Yorktown Reunion

The sixth annual reunion of men who served on the aircraft carrier USS Yorktown, known as "The Fighting Lady," during the last war, will be held in New York City 8-10 May, at the Hotel Belmont Plaza.

The Yorktown Association, which numbers approximately 1,250 members, urges all those served on "The Fighting Lady" during Pacific battle days, to "help make this the biggest and best reunion of all."

U. S. AIR FORCE

COMBAT FREIGHTER—First three-view of Lockheed C-130 medium transport shows distinctive features of the plane that, it is claimed, will fly higher and faster—or lower and slower—than military transports now in service. It is powered by Allison turbo-prop engines. Functions will be (1) transport of cargo and troops, including paratroops, in front-line assault and support; (2) evacuation of casualties from advanced positions; and (3) long-range support in cargo and personnel movement. Integral ramp door opens at rear with clearance for truck-level loading under upswept tail. Ramp is adjustable for horizontal loading as on a cargo dock or may be lowered fully to permit wheeled vehicles to drive in. Extra cargo door is forward of propeller plane, adjacent to crew door. Two cargo doors permit "flow type" cargo handling. Side door aft of wing is used for paratroop exit. Aft section of wheel-well fairing is hinged to provide a wind deflector during paratroop operations.

CADF Communication Chief

Col. Cornelius E. McBrayer recently assumed the duties of Director of Communications and Electronics at Headquarters, Central Air Defense Force, Kansas City, Mo.

Before coming to CADF, the colonel served as chief of the communications and electronics branch with Headquarters, Air University Command.

JET '49ER

Col. John E. Bodle, 49, a veteran of 28 years of flying, soloed recently in an F-80 jet fighter at Randolph Field, Tex.

Deputy chief of staff-comptroller of the Crew Training Air Force, he claims the distinction of being the oldest pilot on Randolph AFB to fly a jet.

AF Uniform Wear In D. C.

The Air Force has issued the following instructions concerning the wearing of seasonal uniforms in the Military District of Washington.

Summer Uniforms

Summer uniforms will be worn from 15 May through 30 Sept. of each year. All officers will wear coats when the summer uniform is worn at off-base public places after normal duty hours. All male personnel may wear summer shirt and trouser-uniforms including cotton khaki, during duty and when enroute to and from duty.

Winter Uniforms

Winter uniforms will be worn 1 Nov. through 14 April of each year. The coat or jacket will be worn by officers with Air Force winter uniforms. Winter shirts will not be worn by officers as outer garments.

Optional Periods

During the month of October of each year and during the period 15 April through 14 May of each year, the wearing of summer or winter uniforms is optional with personnel except when otherwise prescribed for formations or ceremonies.

Civilian Clothes

Civilian clothes are authorized for all personnel when off duty.

ACCIDENT COSTS

The Air Force's Training Command estimates that the 91,300 man-days lost during 1952 because of ground accidents would be almost enough to operate a flying base for one month. Money-wise, these accidents cost the price of five B-47 bombers or 150 T-6 trainers.

SAC Ground Defense

A group of Air Force officers and non-commissioned officers are undergoing a rigorous and intensive training program in ground warfare at Camp Carson, Colo.

The program is part of the Security Forces Training instituted by the Strategic Air Command two years ago. At that time, General Curtis LeMay, CG of SAC, decided a course in ground warfare and the detection of subversion was necessary if AF personnel were required to defend their bases.

The program is under the supervision of Lt. Col. Jack A. Murphy, commanding officer of the 3924th. Instructions consists of extensive military and academic training including such courses as security plans and procedures, employment of Infantry weapons, leadership and subversive intelligence.

Shift TAC Wing

Transfer of the Tactical Air Command's 405th Fighter Bomber Wing to Langley AFB, Va., from Godman AFB, Ky., was announced this week by General John K. Cannon, TAC commander.

In a simultaneous announcement, Col. Charles D. Jones, Langley base commander, was named commander of the 405th, and the 4430th Air Base Wing at Langley was ordered inactivated. Colonel Jones has been commander of the 4430th since its activation in February, 1952.

Personnel of the 405th, who were ordered into active military service as the 108th Fighter Bomber Wing at Turner AFB, Ga., in March, 1951, will temporarily use Lockheed T-33 jet trainers, replacing Republic F-47 propeller-type aircraft.

The original wing, formerly an Air National Guard unit composed of squadrons from New Jersey, Virginia and Mississippi, became the 405th in December, 1952, when the 108th was inactivated and its numerical designation returned to the New Jersey ANG.

Aide To Gen. Spivey

First Lt. Cleo D. Gingerich has been appointed Aide-de-Campe to Maj. Gen. Delmar T. Spivey, CG of the Central Air Defense Force, Kansas City, Mo.

An Air Reservist, Lieutenant Gingerich was recalled to active duty in August 1948 and subsequently was assigned to the Far East Air Forces, serving in both Japan and Korea until 1951.

Prior to his Kansas City assignment, Lieutenant Gingerich was a fighter pilot with the 469th Fighter Squadron, Alcoa, Ala.

1952 Cheney Award

Capt. Kendrick U. Reeves of the 58th Air Rescue Squadron at Wheelus Field in Tripoli has been selected to receive the Cheney Award for his heroic rescue of 32 members and passengers, including women and children, of a British Dakota which went down in the Mediterranean sea last July.

The Cheney Award, which consists of a certificate, an inscribed bronze plaque and $500, is made annually for an act of valor, extreme fortitude, or self-sacrifice in a humanitarian interest in connection with aircraft. It was established in 1927 in memory of Lieutenant William H. Cheney, Air Service, who was killed in an air collision at Foggia, Italy, in 1918.

As aircraft commander of a SA-16, Captain Reeves landed his plane on dangerous heavy seas knowing that a take-off would be impossible, rather than chance an almost certain loss of life among the survivors in the water. The survivors were taken aboard the SA-16 until a British destroyer could reach the scene.

Captain Reeves' action permitted a rescue of all members without injury or loss of life. The SA-16 was later towed ashore.

Captain Reeves, a prisoner of war in Germany from April 1944 to April 1945 holds the Air Medal with five oakleaf clusters and the Distinguished Unit Citation. He also has been recommended for the Distinguished Flying Cross for his action in the rescue.

Winners Told for World-Wide AF Photo Contest

Final results of the Air Force-wide photography contest were announced in Washington this week after three civilian judges selected 10 winners in the black-and-white division and 10 in the color division at Bolling AFB.

First place winner in the black-and-white category was A/1C John Scarpetti, of Eglin AFB, Fla. Tops in the color division was Warrant Officer Lloyd J. Bloomstine, Wright-Patterson AFB, who was also awarded 10th place in the black-and-white competition.

Another multiple winner was Lt. Col. Joseph T. Klemovich, Scott AFB, Ill., who topped second and fourth places among the black-and-whites.

A complete list of winners in the black-and-white division follows: 1st place, Airman Scarpetti; 2d place, Colonel Klemovich; 3d place, A/1C Richard Darcey, Bolling AFB; 4th place, Colonel Klemovich; 5th place, A/1C Robert G. McEachern, Bolling AFB; 6th place, M/Sgt. Wilbur D. Gunter, Oxnard AFB, Calif.; 7th place, A/2C Rene A. Noury, Hickam AFB, Hawaii; 8th place, A/2C D. L. Richardson, Biggs AFB, Tex.; 9th place, M/Sgt. John G. Kaptain, Headquarters U. S. Air Forces in Europe, and 10th place, Warrant Officer Bloomstine.

am AFB, Hawaii; 4th place, Capt. William H. Ward, Narsarsuaq AFB, NEAC; 5th place, T/Sgt. Louis E. Medved, Sampson AFB, N. Y.; 6th place, Lt. Philip A. Beaumont, McAndrew AFB, NEAC; 7th place, S/Sgt. George W. DeVoualla, Shaw AFB, S. C.; 8th place, Maj. Delbert C. Partin, Long Beach AFB; 9th place, Sfc Stephen R. Pawlik, Walters AFB, Tex., and 10th place, A/1C George M. Jones, Luke AFB, Ariz.

Judging of the contest took place in the Service Club at Bolling. Judges were Edward S. Cobb, Chief, Specifications and Tests Division, Research and Development Department, U. S. Naval Photographic Center, Washington, D. C.; James A. Beales, Chief, Photographic Laboratory Unit, Department of State, and Keith B. Lewis.

Air Force winners will be entered in the world-wide Armed Forces photography contest, to be judged about 15 May.

Name 3 Lt. Gens.

President Eisenhower this week nominated three Air Force major generals to have the temporary rank of lieutenant general.

They are:

Maj. Gen. Frank F. Everest, Deputy CG of the Tactical Air Command, Langley AFB, Va., to be Director, The Joint Staff, Joint Chiefs of Staff. He replaces Lt. Gen. Charles P. Cabell, previously nominated by the President to be Deputy Director, Central Intelligence Agency.

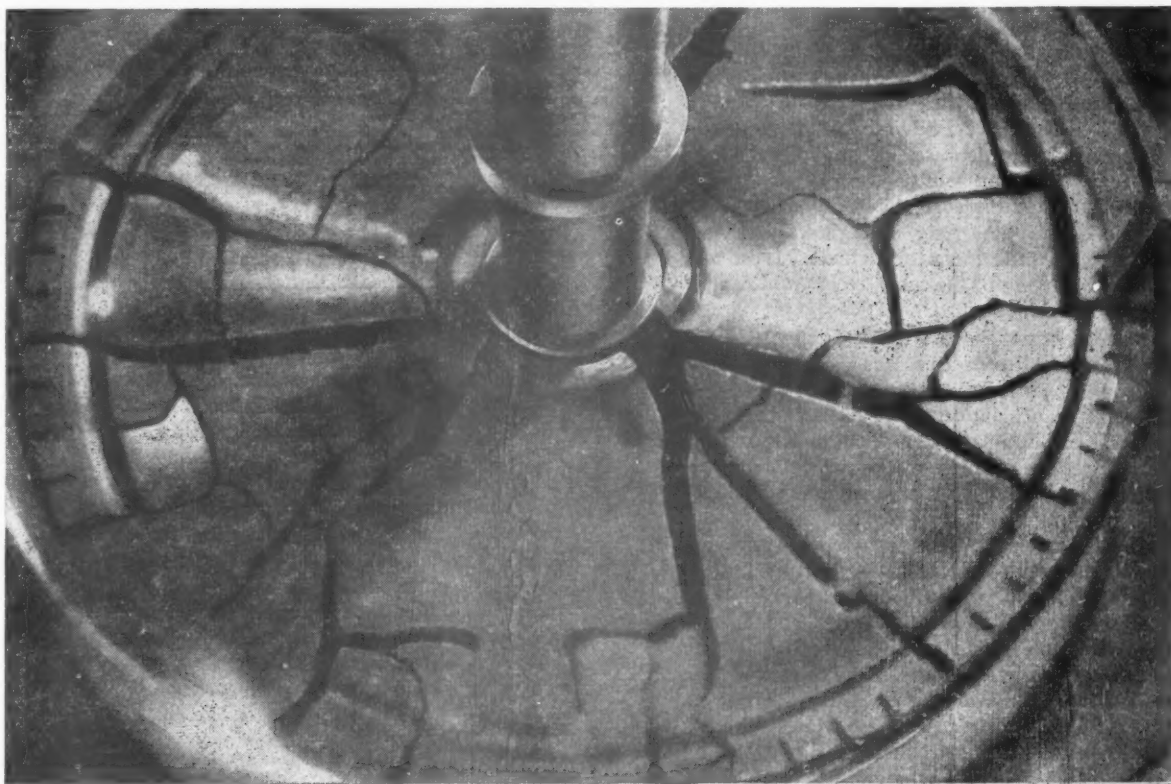

Maj. Gen. Samuel E. Anderson, CG, 8th Air Force, Strategic Air Command, Carswell AFB, Tex., named to head the Fifth Air Force in Korea, succeeding Lt. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus, who will revert to the rank of major general unless assigned to another three-star spot. (General Everest went from lieutenant general to major general when he left command of the Fifth Air Force in May 1952 for assignment at TAC).

Maj. Gen. Emmett O'Donell, CG, 15th Air Force, March AFB, Calif., who becomes Deputy Chief of Staff, Personnel, replacing Lt. Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, who became CG of the Air University at Maxwell AFB, Ala., effective 15 April.

ANOTHER REASON ALLISON LEADS IN THE AIR

We burst this wheel to prove its strength

You are looking at a photograph of a jet engine titanium compressor wheel being deliberately disintegrated by Allison engineers in a super-high-speed test. First, our engineers spun the wheel at the highest rpm the test machine could produce—and it would not burst. Then they cut a notch in the hub and the wheel "let go" at 22,000 rpm—5,000 rpm higher than the strongest steel wheel could stand. This picture taken at 2-millionths of a second showed our engineers the action at the instant the wheel burst.

Tests like this aren't new—but this one served to show that the new higher-strength, lighter-weight titanium alloy wheel has a safety margin of many thousands more rpm than would ever be experienced in actual flight. Careful testing like this forecasts tomorrow's successful application of new metallurgical developments—typical of the continuous pioneering which maintains the leadership for Allison engines in the air.

Allison turbine wheels also are spun at over-speeds for proof of quality in production as well as for laboratory development.

"For reasonable security we require air, ground and sea establishments, efficiently organized into a force capable of holding the key outer bases on the periphery of defense; ready at all times to intercept or set up immediate defense against air and surface attack; potentially powerful enough either to seize or to destroy the sources of attack."—DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER.

A Costly Shortage. Very little is being said publicly about one admitted shortage which is proving expensive in both money and efficiency in the Armed Forces—the shortage of sufficient inducements to influence commissioned and non-commissioned officers to make military service their careers.

Two new developments this week give further emphasis to these facts. First there is the revelation that of the first 800 graduates of the Navy's NROTC Holloway Plan, now completing their three years of obligatory service, only 85—barely more than one out of ten—have signified their willingness to make life careers in the Regular Service. Ninety per cent have turned down Regular Commissions, commissions for which a few years ago American youths were eagerly competing. Thus, for the cost of these men's college educations and their pay and allowances and physical care while going through school, the nation, in 90 per cent of the cases, receives in return only three years' service.

Secondly, Mr. Richard W. Cotton, Chairman of the Electronics Production Board, declares that our Armed Forces are getting only about 60 per cent performance out of their expensive electronics equipment largely because men do not stay in the Services long enough to acquire the training and experience to perfect themselves in its operation and maintenance. Writing in Nation's Business, Mr. Cotton reports that the industry and military members of his board agree that it takes not less than five years of intensive training to make an "across-the-board" electronics man out of a high school graduate with a good IQ. With the present short-term tours of duty and the failure to attract a reasonable percentage of men to remain in the Services, this is obviously impossible. To overcome this problem, he says, electronics equipment should be simplified and there should be offered "more inducements to encourage draftees to take up electronics careers in the Services."

Further aggravating this problem is the critical manpower shortage now approaching. Assistant Secretary of Defense John A. Hannah estimated that in 30 months the nation will virtually exhaust the pool of men physically and mentally fitted for military service. This will throw the burden of maintaining the Forces largely upon the shoulders of the career men of the Regular Services. Because of the failure to attract enough men into the permanent establishments, there will not be sufficient Regulars to carry on the Forces we will need.

As those in the Services know, this deplorable situation has come about by a gradual but progressive nibbling away at their rights, privileges and prestige over the recent years. While the Congress has been relatively generous with the Services as a whole, they have not been considerate of the individuals who compose them. They gave them only half the increase they voted to civilian employees to meet the rising cost of living. They cut officers travel allowances. They reduced the amount of household goods that may be transported at government expense, thus imposing an additional burden on personnel with families. The scope of usefulness of the Post Exchanges and Commissaries were curtailed. Retirement rights were abridged so that men wounded in Korea receive mere pittance. Nothing has been done to set up a suitable system of benefits for the widows and orphans of those who die. Family housing is scarce and often unsuitable. Medical and dental care for Service families is becoming scarcer and new threats arise to its continuation. Instead of praise for their patriotic service under adverse conditions, Service personnel are often the targets for biting and carping criticism.

Secretary of Defense Wilson has recognized the danger of the situation and has ordered a study made of its causes. In these economy-minded times, it may be difficult to convince Congress that it can save money in the long run and promote efficiency now by restoring the rights and privileges that have been taken from the Services.

Earning Retired Pay

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

PL 810 says that a Reserve officer may earn eligibility to retirement at age 60. The Comptroller General has ruled that the Reserve officer may continue to earn retirement credit until he is 64. Now the Army and the Air Force have come forth and ruled that all officers with 20 years of creditable service are through at 55—except that colonels may remain active until 58. BUT they will not be eligible for retired pay until 60.

I don't believe that they can make this "stick" if the Reservists take it to Court. If the Armed Forces want to eliminate Reserve officers and use the alibi "it puts them on a par with officers of the Regular services"— then PL 810 should be amended and permit retirement of all officers with 30 years of creditable service prior to reaching 60.

EL RETIRO

Service Widows

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

In your 28 March issue under Readers Views, "A Colonel's Widow" concerns a matter which I think all of us retired Officers should request your JOURNAL to sponsor as one of your "Get it Done Quick" items.

Some form of legislation should be enacted to prevent the old Army's wives from being subjected to circumstances such as she relates. There are, no doubt, thousands of cases where a Retired Officer has died leaving a widow as old as he, and who, incidentally, has served by his side as the aid to his well being.

I, too, ask in behalf of my good wife, as well as all retired Officers Wives, that the retirement check continue after the husband's death until the marriage or death of the widow. None of us, in 30 years, can become financially independent in the armed services. Our meager savings soon disappear in trying to live on our present retirement pay. We have cut our standards of living since retirement as we return one-fifth to income tax, so believe me you cannot save.

RETIRED AIR FORCE COLONEL

But if the full facts can be driven home, we think Congress will act.

Industry and Defense. Any change in our established policy of dove-tailing the rearmament program with a parallel plan to expand the base of production at the same time should be preceded by a most exhaustive restudy of its value. Any new course must afford equal or better facilities for emergency resumption of weapons of war production. Any new course must be based on its value to security and not on relative costs.

The ability of American industry to turn out munitions has always been our greatest asset for defense. Any potential enemy would know this and give it great weight in his calculations. Just as aircraft and guided missiles are making modern warfare speedier and speedier, so must industry be given the means to get into action more swiftly than ever before. It would be dangerous to lag in this respect.

IN THE JOURNAL

10 Years Ago—

A detailed, carefully integrated system has been developed by the Army Air Forces to keep the training of officers and men and the new materiel abreast of the lessons learned at the fighting fronts. A most important feature is the rotation of personnel between the active fronts, headquarters in Washington, and the training and materiel centers.

50 Years Ago—

The Navy Department has decided that Newport, R. I. and Norfolk, Va., shall become the two important rendezvous for training. At these points the newly enlisted man will be well instructed in almost everything pertaining to the life afloat, including the manufacture of clothing, fancy work with the needle, cooking and the preparation of food under the many vicissitudes of ship life, sail making, knotting and splicing, heaving the lead, rowing, and in fact about everything the sailor needs to know to become an efficient man-of-war's-man.

85 Years Ago—

The Peace Commission have not taken the field too early; a little delay, and to all appearances, the Indians would have been ahead of them—and on the war trail. The reservation plan, or some modification of it, is the only practicable one. To make simple treaties of peace and distributions of presents is a farce (a farce shifting to a tragedy) which has been played too often to bear sane repetition.

Dependent Care

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

I have noticed your editorials on the importance of maintaining the program of medical care for the families of personnel in the military services. You have emphasized its importance to the morale and efficiency of the line officer and enlisted man, particularly to those who must go abroad and leave their loved ones to the mercies of his employers—the government. Yet I think you have missed another important factor and that is its importance to the civilian doctor who is giving his time to his nation.

As one of them I can testify that, while I am devoting my time to my country, I do not want my professional skills to deteriorate. Without dependent care cases my entire time would be devoted to the ills which beset young men. I came from a small country town and expect to return there. The bulk of my practice would be women and children. It would be important to me, and I am sure to the large part of the Services' part time physicians, to keep up-to-date on these cases.

When it is difficult for the Services to get and keep doctors an added incentive would be the continuation of the dependent care program to keep them alive to the problems they will face in private practice.

Industrial Plan at Cross-Roads

Problem Of Broadening Production Base Or More Economically Concentrating In Fewer Plants Soon To Be Resolved; Sec. Wilson Reported To Be Modifying His Views

IN the continued absence of a definitive statement either from Secretary of Defense Wilson or President Eisenhower, it is still not possible to say whether the industrial mobilization plan laid down by former Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall in December 1950 and continued by his successor, former Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett, will be renewed, revised or revoked.

However, the intent of the Administration must soon become known, for with defense budget deliberations due to be resumed early next month on Capitol Hill, the facts will be brought to full public attention.

The reason that questions have been raised—among those who want answers is Senator Saltonstall, Armed Services Committee Chairman—is the widespread publicity given to recent reports telling of Mr. Wilson's asserted belief that defense production would be enhanced by concentrating greater production in the most efficient plants. He is said to have expressed the belief that it would be better to run fewer plants at greater production rates than to keep some secondary and "marginal" plants operating with less than capacity production.

Silent on Views

Mr. Wilson has said nothing publicly on this subject. Hence, there is no way of knowing for certain to what extent he feels that the current program is at fault. Further, there is no word yet from the President on this matter.

Senator Saltonstall, perturbed at reports that the mobilization base was to be cut, asked Mr. Wilson to come to the Capitol and talk the matter over with him. The Defense Secretary, because of his trip to Europe, was unable to meet with the Senator. Mr. Wilson suggested, however, that the two were not far apart in what they wanted in the way of production and an industrial mobilization base.

In addition to Senator Saltonstall of Massachusetts, his predecessor as Armed Services Committee Chairman, Senator Russell of Georgia, has expressed concern at the published reports regarding possible tampering with the mobilization base.

Senator Russell and Senator Saltonstall, as well as other military experts on Capitol Hill, were briefed in detail regarding the mobilization plan advanced by General Marshall in cooperation with the Office of Defense Mobilization, then headed by Mr. Charles E. Wilson of General Electric.

Sec. Marshall's Plan

The cardinal characteristics of the mobilization base build-up were prescribed by then Secretary Marshall in a directive issued on 18 Dec. 1950. Specifically, General Marshall directed that there should be an "equitable distribution of procurement contracts among a number of competent suppliers." He added that "the concentration of contracts with a few leader suppliers is to be avoided unless the necessity therefor is clear."

General Marshall called for "the fullest possible use of small business concerns." He said also that "whenever time permits, and in order to broaden the mobilization base, additional contractors should be utilized in lieu of multi-shift or overtime operation."

In a matter of weeks after General Marshall's directive, there was tangible evidence of its implications when the Air Force announced award of a contract to the Kaiser-Frazer Corporation for manufacture of C-119 troop carrying transports, designed, developed, and formerly built exclusively, by the Fairchild Aircraft Corporation at Hagerstown, Md.

THE JOURNAL of 6 Jan. 1951 reported that the Kaiser-Frazer contract had caused "considerable concern in aviation circles" and quoted comments from Air Force officials explaining that the action was being taken in accordance with Secretary Marshall's directive.

Seek Peak Production

An Air Force spokesman said then that "the source of number of plants able to produce planes and aircraft equipment will be increased, so that peak production could be achieved more speedily if all-out mobilization should come."

The article in the 6 Jan. 1951 issue, after reporting (1) the viewpoint of those favoring preferred consideration for established manufacturers with demonstrated capability and efficiency and (2) the viewpoint of those contending that, notwithstanding extra costs, the mobilization base had to be broadened by bringing in new suppliers, concluded:

"It is certain that the divergent points of view involved in this matter will be raised time and again as defense production increases."

In the next two years, from January 1951 until the Truman Administration went out of office in January 1953, the problem was reviewed frequently, but always the decision was made to stick to the program set up by Secretary Marshall at the end of 1950, regardless of extra costs and time involved.

Balancing Budget

Now, however, with production up and the problem of keeping both primary and secondary sources operating at reasonable efficiency consequently heightened and with the drive on to balance the budget, Defense officials are taking a new look at the industrial mobilization base plan.

The man who apparently is taking the hardest look is Mr. Wilson. He is said to believe that the nation should concentrate to a greater degree on dual purpose plants, capable of civilian or military production, with relatively easy transition from one to the other as the situation dictates.

News stories last week generally indicated that Mr. Wilson was considering what would amount to a fundamental change in the mobilization base program. However, this week the reports were toned down and it appeared that no drastic change is contemplated by Mr. Wilson, although there is no question that he feels some modification of previous planning is in order.

In view of the conjecture and controversy which has developed since the disclosure that Mr. Wilson was giving serious consideration to a revision of the mobilization base, it can be taken for granted that Congress soon will demand to know the details of what Mr. Wilson will propose and if his plans have the approval of the President.

Thus far, notwithstanding the fact that changes in the industrial mobilization base would have widespread ramifications, there has been no public explanation of what is in mind from any Administration official.

Editorial Comment

This silence prompted a leading Capital newspaper to publish an editorial this week raising questions about the industrial base.

The following is the text of an editorial titled "Pentagon Iron Curtain," from the Washington, D. C., Evening Star of 15 April:

"Defense Secretary Wilson's efforts to clamp down on the flow of news from the Pentagon will encourage the uneasy feeling that all is far from well in our defense program."

"There have already been rumblings of discontent and apprehension. And they cannot be entirely silenced by any American-style Iron Curtain around the Pentagon."

"One dispute, already aired to some extent, concerns the kind of industrial base we should maintain for military production. Mr. Wilson apparently wants to abandon the program laid down by his predecessors, which relied heavily on stand-by plants and reserve tooling. He is said to favor stepped-up production in a relatively few military plants, stockpiled equipment and primary reliance in time of emergency on quick conversion of civilian plants to military production. This presumably would result in immediate economy. But we have had some costly—and dangerous—experiences with PRESIDENT EISENHOWER, in a well considered speech before the American Society of Newspaper Editors on Thursday, initiated an American peace offensive of his own with a series of fresh challenges for the Communist world to meet. In employment of the present Korean situation (and without specific reference to Communist use of the bomb-free "liberty road" for moving up great quantities of supplies along with the exchange-prisoners) he identified the first peace-step as the making of an honorable armistice in Korea; it would have to lead, he said, toward a free election throughout Korea (such as Russia has always blocked) and to a calling off of aggressions in Indo-China and Malaya, without which peace in Korea "would be a fraud."

AS TO WORLDWIDE PEACE

the President expressed America's readiness to enter on a true disarmament treaty providing (1) non-use of atomic weapons, (2) effective limitations (specific or relative) of armaments, and (3) a practical system of intensive inspection by United Nations agents to see that the agreement is kept. It is this genuine inspection which Russia has always blocked. An interesting suggestion was that, with armaments reduced, the United States and other nations would be prepared to employ funds thus saved to help set up a fund for reconstruction and aid throughout the needy world.

RUSSIA, he continued, could best demonstrate good faith by allowing the Red satellites freedom to choose their own forms of government, by releasing the prisoners held in Russia since World War II, and by expediting the long-delayed Austrian peace treaty. The President expressed willingness for such a unified Germany as should have free elections to choose its government, all of this a part of "lifting the Iron Curtain" to permit interchange of persons, goods, and ideas. He called dramatically for "a peace that is neither partial nor punitive."

THE NORTH ATLANTIC COUNCIL will assemble in Paris next Thursday (General Omar N. Bradley and his Military Committee colleagues are already engaged in their preliminary meetings) to resume its interrupted labors of calculating the full program for 1953, and to initiate consideration of next year's program as well. The interruption of this process was inevitable, chiefly because the new Administration in Washington required time for settling several issues (or trying to) both internal and external, and making its own decision on what America would be prepared to give, and hence what it would ask of Allies.

Unfortunately, more than a mere time extension is needed. It is apparent that only the most cocksure prophet would undertake to say at this time exactly what America is prepared to give to the common pool, for judgments on this matter are still widely at variance. In default of firm understanding on that point, we must expect to find Allies reluctant to make firm commitments of their own, so dependent, is one upon the other. It may, therefore, prove difficult to lay down anything more than a request for a firmer scheduling of commitments up to 1956, to permit planning; also specific betterments which General Ridgway, at SHAPE, believes are necessary.

These include several additional combat-worthy divisions available on extremely short notice. To the degree that they are combat-worthy, and swiftly available at a desired point, will depend whether they may be reserve units of a superior nature, rather than units on active service. The field commander's natural yearning is for actual duty troops, for they are on the spot and can be counted; the conflicting desire, to have these units in reserve only, so that individual personnel can continue in peacetime occupations is understandable—indeed it has been a guiding factor in decisions up to date affecting the West's resources.

WITH FULL AWARENESS THAT France has large difficulties, it must be recognized that France makes large claims to consideration—and properly so for she is patently a geographical key, to say the least, to the West's defense. Therefore, France's wishes, so largely determined by her domestic frustrations, are entitled to most respectful consideration, for NATO's sake as well as France's. At the same time, the wishes of France's neighbors are not negligible and the points at issue (such as the Saar) simply cannot be settled on a unilateral basis. Premier Rene Mayer and his colleagues made a good impression during their recent Washington trip, but they could not wholly dispose of the painful feeling that, for whatever reason, France is not exactly a rock of defense, or of economic or political stability either. It has been made clear this past week, for example, that France is unable to lift her conscription rate to two years (it now is 18 months) or to increase defense expenditures in Europe unless American aid takes care of part of the heavy expenditures in Indo-China. Secretary of State Dulles appears to plan on exactly that (increasing assistance to Indo-China as well as Formosa is suggested) but to an unpredicted extent, although $300 millions have been mentioned. Even this is obviously a temporary easing, having nothing to do with France's basic troubles. These call for long-range financing, which is impossible until the market has more faith than at present in the stability both of the franc and whatever coalition government is in power. Until France can pull a little more of NATO's total load, it is difficult to accept France's demands on others. This is one of the largest problems facing the Council next week, and it affects all the others.

THE DOMINANT PROBLEM, of course, is Russia, as in the past, and Moscow's relative sweetness of conduct in the past fortnight makes the problem more puzzling rather than otherwise. It is easier to adjust one's conduct when the arch foe is doing what comes na'ch'ally to him, rather than taking time out to confuse us with imitation curtsies in our direction. The past week has seen Russia's

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Looking Them Over—The unheralded one-day visit to the Pentagon late last week of General Lauris Norstad, Air Force commander in Europe, and the trip this week of Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens to Europe have raised new interest in speculation concerning who will be the new Chiefs of Staff for the Air Force and Army.

On 30 June, the extended tour of General Hoyt S. Vandenberg as Air Force Chief of Staff expires and on 16 Aug., General J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, completes his four-year tour. On 16 Aug., General of the Army Omar N. Bradley will end two two-year terms as JCS Chairman.

Pentagon observers note that the Service Secretaries now have had, or have made, opportunities during recent weeks to meet the principal contenders for the top military posts in the Air Force and Army.

AIR FORCE: At USAF Headquarters, Secretary Harold E. Talbott has frequent contact with General Nathan F. Twining, Air Force Chief of Staff. During General Vandenberg's illness, General Twining was Acting Chief of Staff, has sat in on numerous proceedings of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and is well respected at the highest levels of all the Services. If General Twining is not named to replace General Vandenberg, he probably will retire this year, since he reaches 35 years' service and 5 years in permanent grade of major general in October. This means retirement unless a special exception is made and the Air Force has not been making any exceptions. General Twining is 55.

Lt. Gen. Thomas D. White, Deputy Air Force Chief of Staff, Operations, is another prospect for the top post whom Secretary Talbott confers with frequently at the Pentagon. It is recalled that General White accompanied Mr. Talbott to the Far East shortly after the new Secretary took office.

Another USAF Headquarters officer considered in the running is Lt. Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, Deputy Chief of Staff, Personnel, but his assignment to head the Air University at Maxwell AFB, Ala., apparently takes him out of the running for appointment as Chief of Staff this year.

General White is 52 and General Kuter will be 48 next month.

Outside of USAF Headquarters, there are two prominently mentioned for General Vandenberg's job. One is General Curtis E. LeMay, Commanding General of the Strategic Air Command, an assignment he has held since October 1948. General LeMay has been visited at his Offutt AFB, Nebr., headquarters by both Secretary Talbott and Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson.

It was just a year ago last month that then President Truman nominated Generals Twining and LeMay to switch jobs. Many thought that this action meant General LeMay was being readied to replace General Vandenberg. But when General Vandenberg was taken ill, the change in assignments first was postponed and then was cancelled.

The second four-star officer who may be named to succeed General Vandenberg is General Norstad, CG of U. S. Air Forces in Europe. He flew in to Washington late last week for a one day's conference, officially described as relating to NATO matters. Speculation was, however, that in addition to the NATO matters, Secretary Talbott had a fine opportunity to size up General Norstad for any possible new assignments.

General LeMay and General Norstad are the same age—46.

ARMY: In Europe this week, Secretary Stevens was greeted by General Matthew B. Ridgway, former Far East Commander, who succeeded General Eisenhower as SHAPE commander. Another four-star contender for the post of Chief of Staff also is in Europe—General Alfred M. Gruenther, selected by General Eisenhower to be his Chief of Staff at SHAPE and retained in that post under General Ridgway. General Gruenther was in Washington earlier this month.

General Ridgway is 58; General Gruenther, 54. Both have the same birthday, 3 March.

Secretary Stevens' trip to Europe follows his recent visit to the Far East, where he went for the primary purpose of getting first hand information on the ammunition situation, but where he also met another top candidate for the job of Chief of Staff, General Mark W. Clark, Far East Commander. General Clark, who has held four-star rank since 10 Mar. 1945 and rank as permanent major general since 28 Mar. 1942, is the second ranking officer on the Army promotion list, preceded only by General Thomas T. Handy, U. S. Commander in Europe, who at 61 is, of course, beyond the age for appointment as Chief of Staff. General Clark will be 57 on 1 May.

At the Pentagon, another four-star officer is seen as a possible choice to be Chief of Staff of the Army. He is General John E. Hull, Vice Chief of Staff. He will be 58 on 26 May.

In addition to the Secretaries of the Air Force and Army and the Secretary of Defense, the White House will, of course, have the final say on the new Chiefs, since it is the President who must send the nominations to the Senate.

Best guesses as of mid-April:

Air Force—General Twining, who has proved himself capable of leading the Air Force. His appointment to a position which would make him a JCS member also would enhance continuity at a time when three members (Generals Bradley, Vandenberg and Collins) will be leaving the JCS.

Army—General Gruenther, the personal choice of President Eisenhower as his Chief of Staff in Europe.

JCS Chairman—Admiral William M. Fechteler, USN, to replace General Bradley in a rotation of the top military job in the Armed Forces.

Senior Nurse to Retire—Lt. Col. Helen A. Dugan, senior nurse in the Army Nurse Corps and supervisor of the isolation wards at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, Washington, D. C., will retire from service 30 April after 35 years of active duty. She joined the Nurse Corps in 1918, and organized and directed the Isolation Section at Walter Reed 10 years later.

Samoan Chief's Son is Paratrooper—The son of a late chief of the Samoan village of Aua on Tutuila Island has just completed airborne training at the Army's Infantry Center, Ft. Benning, Ga. He is Pvt. Fili M. Liufau, who plans to return to his native country to continue in the teaching profession after his three-year tour of Army service.

MEMO

To Journal Readers

...The Rockefeller Committee Report, certain to point the need for some legislative reforms in the Defense Department organization, but likely to reject proposals for RADICAL MODIFICATION of the JCS structure is expected momentarily. SecDef Wilson took a rough draft with him to Europe this week. The Committee will not recommend a clear-cut division of PLANNING AND COMMAND responsibilities of the Chiefs, as was advocated publicly by one of its members, Dr. Vannevar Bush. Good guess, however, is that the Rockefeller Group will say the MUNITIONS BOARD should be abolished.

...Chances are good that strong support will develop on Capitol Hill for a plan to give SPECIAL COMPENSATION to returning POW's, as was done for those held by the enemy during WWII. Problem, however, is that money for the WWII payments came from ALIEN FUNDS, whereas any payments for prisoners returning from Korea would be directly from the Treasury.

...Defense Dept. officials are said to have prepared a uniform PROMOTION POLICY for the returning POW's, but late in the week the proposal had not received top approval.

...The delays in the AMMUNITION HEARINGS and the removal of television after the first days of testimony denied Army witnesses this week as wide an audience as was available for the OPENING SESSIONS when most of the critical charges were made.

...Unless there's a change in plans, the Air Force will stop sending its chaplains for INDOCTRINATION TRAINING at the Army Chaplain School, Ft. Slocum, N. Y., instead will order new chaplains to attend the BASIC OFFICER COURSE at Randolph AFB, Tex.

...The Defense Dept. says it is still too early to talk details, but a study has been made of the possibility of granting MEDICAL SCHOOL SCHOLARSHIPS to students who would agree to serve a specified number of years in the Armed Forces. It's part of a program being worked out to attract more DOCTORS AND DENTISTS to military service.

...The Army has graduated its first class of Medical Service Corps HELICOPTER PILOTS. They will be assigned to 'Copter Ambulance units.

...Brig. Gen. Cornelius J. Mara, who ENLISTED IN THE ARMY in 1918 and was an Assistant Military Aide at the White House as an Air Force BRIGADIER GENERAL will retire at the end of April. He served as an enlisted man, warrant officer and officer in the Army before transferring to the Air Force.

Navy Loaded with Literature—Navy men aboard ships in remote sections of the world need no longer worry about how to spend their spare time. The Bureau of Naval Personnel is making it possible for them to use their leisure hours learning about the trials and travails of New Hampshire gardening. Or, if they prefer, they can delve into the life story of a minah bird.

The Bureau has an over-abundance of books (163 titles, in all), which it is going to pass out to Navy libraries on a first-come-first-served basis "until the supply is exhausted." The reason? The books are "in excess of expected requirements for normal use in ship and station libraries."

All of the books aren't new, however; "for the most part" they are used copies. The Bureau notes.

In addition to Sense of Humus, which the Bureau says outlines "the difficulties of gardening among the rocks and lack of humus in New Hampshire," and Raffles, which details the "life story of a minah bird who talked and whistled," the excess list also contains such thrillers as Mocking Bird Is Singing, the "The Pioneer story of Therese who loves but cannot marry her cousin, against background of American expansion."

Other titles which are going begging in the Navy are Shakespeare's Comedies and Tragedies, Walt Whitman's Leaves of Grass, the Iliad and the Odyssey, Don Quixote, The Scarlet Letter, Vanity Fair, Return of the Native, numerous biographies, collections of poetry and eight strictly Navy books, including "1937 or earlier editions" of Naval Ordnance.

Ships and stations have been asked to indicate "if more than one copy is needed."

PHILCO IS THE WORLD'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF MICROWAVE EQUIPMENT

Philco leads the world in mass production of quality microwave equipment to meet modern industry's demands for relay systems of the highest reliability and performance.

Philco microwave components meet most JAN (Joint Army-Navy) specifications without any changes in circuitry, thereby permitting other users of microwave communications equipment to have the built-in reliability required by the Armed Forces. That is why commercial users of Philco microwave equipment include such famous names as American Telephone & Telegraph Co., Santa Fe Railway System, Bonneville Power Administration, Platte Pipeline Company and many others.

Where quality and reliability are important, look to Philco... world's leading manufacturer of microwave equipment!

the Douglas Liftmaster

Flying for the Air Force as C-118A and for the Navy as R6D, the Douglas Liftmaster delivers 14-ton payloads 2850 miles non-stop—at the lowest cost.

Outside, Liftmaster shows the same aerodynamic lines as its commercial counterpart, the DC-6A. Inside, there's room for 28,700 pounds of mixed freight. Large front and rear doors service cargo compartments. A self-powered loading elevator lifts 4,000 pounds from truck bed height to cabin floor level... fits either door. Through this combination of speed and utility, Liftmaster achieves the ultimate in long-range, low-cost transportation of military matériel.

Performance of the Liftmaster is further proof of Douglas leadership in aviation. Planes, produced in quantity to fly faster and farther with a bigger payload, are a basic rule of Douglas design.

Industrial Plans

this approach in the past.
"Even more disturbing is a report aired in the current issue of Aviation Week, a trade publication. This article attributes to Mr. Wilson a desire to reduce jet bomber production heavily in favor of a greater output of fighters and defensive missiles to bolster American air defenses against the threat of Russian atomic attacks.

"If this is correct there surely is reason for real concern. For the one great restraining force that we have been able to bring to bear on the Russians since World War II has been the threat of our long-range bombers capable of reaching deep into the Soviet Union with atomic weapons. It is undoubtedly cheaper to build fighters to patrol our own skies. But if this were to be done at the price of sacrificing a modern strategic Air Force the security thus obtained would be more illusory than real. For while we might—and the 'might' should be emphasized—be able to keep Russian bombers away from the United States, we would lose much of our ability to prevent the Russians from striking at other areas of the world that are vital to our security.

"It is difficult to believe that General Eisenhower would countenance any such backward move as this in the name of misguided economy. But if any such move is afoot in the Pentagon the American people and their representatives in Congress have a right to know about it, and to be heard on it, before a final decision is taken. We have paid dearly in the past for planning blunders masquerading as economy, and we cannot afford any more of them."

5th Inf. Regt. Reunion

The annual business meeting and reunion of the 5th Infantry Regiment will be held 26 July. No site for the get-together has been decided upon as yet. Further information can be obtained by contacting the Secretary, P. O. Box 2161, South Portland, Me.

Midpoint In Atom Tests

A medium-sized nuclear device was detonated atop a 100 foot steel tower this week as the midway mark was reached in the current spring test series at the Yucca Flat A-bomb proving ground.

The test was conducted without military observers or troops, but about 20 planes participated, most of them to track the radio active mushrooming cloud or to take photographs.

The size and duration of the nuclear blast indicated it was not as powerful as previous explosions, although the post-detonation flash was intensified in brilliance by atmospheric conditions.

Meanwhile, it was announced that Marine troops from Camp Pendleton, Calif., and Camp Lejeune, N. C., will participate in future tests. Helicopters are being flown to the test area from the Marine Air Group 16, Santa Ana, Calif.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will live in Lebanon.

The bride was graduated from the George School, Bucks County, Pa., and Hood College, Md. She has recently returned from a two year assignment with the Mutual Defense Assistance Program in Heidelberg, Germany.

The bridegroom was graduated from Phillips Exeter Academy, Exeter, New Hampshire, and the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. He has served in Japan and Korea and is now Aide-de-Camp to Major General Barth at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, Pa.

CROFT-DRESSER—The marriage of Miss Dorothy Dresser, of 200 Cabrini Boulevard, New York, N. Y., and formerly of Scarsdale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner S. Dresser, of New York City to Mr. Edward Croft, jr., of Washington, D. C., son of Mrs. Edward Croft of Washington, D. C. and the late Major General Croft, USA, took place at noon on Tuesday 14 April, in the Chapel of the Little Church Around the Corner, New York City.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Miss Pauline Hancox of Northvale, N. J. was the maid of honor. The groom's cousin, Mr. Edward S. Croft, jr., of Atlanta, Georgia, was his best man.

Following the ceremony, a luncheon was held in the Empire Room of the Waldorf-Astoria attended by the bridal party and relatives: Mrs. Edward Croft, sr., Mrs. Edward S. Croft, Colonel and Mrs. A. S. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner S. Dresser, Mrs. Edward S. Pope, and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney R. Dresser.

Mrs. Croft, jr. attended the Wright Oral School, New York Clarke School, Northampton, Mass., and the National Academy of Design, New York. Her husband graduated from Clarke School and Polytechnic Preparatory Country Day School in Brooklyn, New York, took his academic degree from Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., and his Master's degree in Chemistry at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is now with the Chemical Corps of the Department of the Army, Department of Defense.

Mr. Edward Croft, jr.'s paternal grandparents were the late Col. and Mrs. Edward Croft of Greenville, S. C., and his maternal grandparents were the late Judge and Mrs. Price Williams of Mobile, Alabama.

ADCOCK-BROWN—The Chapel of the Centurion at historic Fort Monroe, Va., is to be the setting at 3:30 o'clock on the afternoon of 25 April for the wedding of Miss Virginia Zenayde Brown, daughter of Col. Rothwell Hutton Brown of Ft. Monroe, and Capt. Robert Lionel Adcock, also of Ft. Monroe. The future bridegroom is a son of Maj. Gen. Clarence Lionel Adcock, USA, Ret., who resides at 430 East 63d St., New York City, and Mrs. Olive C. Adcock of Waltham, Mass.

After a wedding trip, the couple will establish their home at Ft. Monroe where Captain Adcock is Administrative Officer for the G-3 (Training) Section of the Office, Chief of Army Field Forces.

Miss Brown will have her younger sister, Miss Cynthia Brown, who is attending Strayer's College in Washington, D. C., as her maid of honor. Another Washington friend, Miss Nancy LeFevre of Chevy Chase, Md., and a cousin, Miss Alison Bell, of Maplewood, N. J., will be the bridesmaids. Mrs. Giles R. Carpenter will be the mistress of ceremonies and Mrs. Alexander Lemberes will be in charge of the bride's book.

Captain Adcock will have his brother, Lt. Col. Charles Warren Adcock, who is due back in the states after a Korean tour, as best man. Three other Army friends, Capt. John M. Schultz, Capt. Thomas H. Jones, jr., both of Fort Monroe, and Capt. Harold C. Donofrio of Carlisle Barracks, Pa., will be the ushers.

Miss Brown is a sister of George Rothwell Brown, II, of Fort Monroe, and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Rothwell Brown and Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Hayes, all of Washington, D. C. She came to Fort Monroe in 1952 from Washington, D. C., when her father returned from a tour in Germany to be assigned to Army Field Forces as Chief of the Armor Division, Combat Arms Advisory Group. She attended the University of Oregon and George Washington University in Washington, D. C., before accompanying her father to Europe when he began his tour in Germany.

Captain Adcock attended Sullivan's School in Washington, D. C., and received his commission in the Regular Army in 1949. He returned from a tour of duty in Germany in July, 1951, and attended the Advanced Officers Course at The Infantry School, Ft. Benning, Ga. He was assigned to Army Field Forces at Fort Monroe last June.

PATCH-THOMPSON—The Stanford Memorial Church at Palo Alto, Calif. was the setting for the afternoon ceremony uniting Miss Margaret Sealand Thompson and 2d Lt. Donald Clifford Patch in marriage, on 4 April. The bride is the daughter of Brig. Gen. Orlen N. Thompson, USA-Ret., and Mrs. Thompson of Menlo Park, Calif., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford G. Patch, also of Menlo Park.

The Rev. R. Marvin Stuart officiated and General Thompson gave his daughter in marriage. Her wedding gown of white satin was fashioned with a full train and an off-the-shoulder neckline edged with Brussels lace, with which she wore her mother's full length veil of Brussels lace, held to a cap with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and stephanotis. Mrs. Herbert Lowe was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Richard Hinze and Mrs. William Lutticken. Mr. Jerry Patch was his brother's best man and ushering were the Messrs. Pierre Hathaway, Douglass McLellan, Richard Hinze and William Sigal, with Capt. Alfred G. Thompson, USAF, the bride's brother, and Ens. Bruce Wilson as honorary ushers.

Following the ceremony, General and Mrs. Thompson were hosts at a reception at the Los Altos Golf and Country Club.

Upon their return from a wedding trip, the young couple will make their home at Amarillo, Tex., where Lieutenant Patch will report for duty.

The bride attended schools at Niagara Falls, N. Y., and the Lake Erie College at Painesville, O. Her husband was graduated from Stanford University. He was attending the Stanford Graduate School of Architecture when he was called to active duty.

OFFICERS of the Rittenhouse Square Signal Corps Officers' Wives Club in Philadelphia. Left to right: Mrs. Brookman R. Painter, retiring Assistant Chairman; Mrs. John H. Russell, retiring Chairman; Mrs. Edward E. Moran, retiring Secretary; Mrs. W. Preston Corderman, Honorary Chairman, who will soon be leaving with her husband, Brigadier General Corderman who is being transferred to G-4 in Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Edgar W. Allen, newly elected Assistant Chairman; Mrs. John W. Bornholdt, new Chairman, and Mrs. Lovie P. Perdue, jr., new Secretary.

POSTS AND STATIONS

CAMP IRWIN, CALIF. The Officers' Wives' Club was treated to a showing of 1953 Spring fashions at their regular monthly meeting last week.

Club members and their friends modeled the choice selections of local merchants while other officers' wives gazed appreciatively at the new styles offered this year.

Featuring a wide variety of cotton materials, the clothes ranged from attractive bathing and sun suits to the latest styles in evening dresses and formals.

The women who modeled the Spring selections were Mrs. P. W. Tlemann, Mrs. L. B. Lenius, Mrs. W. L. Heubner, Mrs. R. N. Riley, and Mrs. A. L. Freedman.

CAMP STEWART, GA. Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Richard W. Mayo and their daughter, Sarah, received the officers of the post last week. General Mayo only recently was assigned to Camp Stewart as CG.

Capt. Albert A. Baray has been named Officer in Charge of the Camp Stewart Officers' Mess. A new assistant club officer, 2d Lt. Harrison O. French, has also been named.

INDIANTOWN GAP, PA. A new teen-age club for the sons and daughters of 5th Infantry Division personnel opened last week with a dance attended by more than 55 enthusiastic members of the younger set. The club, sponsored by the Officers' Wives' Club, is designed to provide a place for the teenagers to meet. Mrs. William A. Walker is chairman of the committee on the teen-age club.

President of the teen organization is Miss Ruth Allen. Other officers are Miss Jean Zwicker, librarian, and Miss Terry Walker, secretary-treasurer.

Laslie, and Mary Ellen Eaton. Miss Ruckman was the recipient of an evening gown, given by Hollywood Togs to the most popular model.

The Senior Group of the West Point Chapter of the DUSA modeled as the Army wife. Those who modeled included Mrs. W. V. D. Ochs, Mrs. Wm. F. Cathrae, Mrs. G. W. Bixby, Mrs. C. R. Gorder, Mrs. C. E. Robbs, Mrs. V. H. Slayden, and Mrs. L. B. Broughton. The grande finale consisted of a bridal party and setting with Mrs. Broughton cast as the bride, both the Army wives and Army teen-agers as attendants with little Casey Dunham, daughter of Major and Mrs. J. W. Dunham, as the flower girl attendant.

ARMY CHEMICAL CENTER, MD. Dr. Duncan MacRae, one of the Chemical Corps' key civilians, and his wife were honored at a dinner at the Gunpowder Mess last week by their many friends at the Chemical Center, as well as some from Baltimore, Camp Detrick and Washington. The occasion was Dr. MacRae's retirement after 24 years of continuous service at this post.

He came to the post in 1929 when it was known as Edgewood Arsenal and became chief chemist of the Chemical Warfare Service (now the Chemical Corps). His acquaintance with the Chemical Warfare Service, however, began in 1918 when he served as Captain during WW I.

During WW II, he was liaison assistant with the Chemical Warfare Service and the National Defense Research Council. Just prior to retirement, in addition to serving as chief consultant, Dr. MacRae was in charge of the educational program for interested ACC personnel in connection with the University of Maryland extension courses.

Among those attending the dinner were Brig. Gen. Charles E. Loucks, Deputy Chief Chemical Officer; Mrs. Loucks and daughter, Lois, and Brig. Gen. Henry M. Black, Commanding General of the Materiel Command and Mrs. Black.

LITTLE CREEK, VA. The Navy Relief Auxiliary of the Tidewater Virginia area was $15,000 richer last Saturday night.

A check for this amount was presented to Rear Adm. I. N. Kiland, USN, Commandant of the Fifth Naval District and President of the Hampton Roads Auxiliary, as the first Tidewater Navy Relief Ball's contribution to the auxiliary's needs.

More than 2,000 Naval officers and civilian guests attended the ball and watched as Mrs. Bosquet N. Wev, chairman of the event, handed the check to Admiral Kiland.

The admiral expressed his appreciation "in behalf of the great many Navy men and their families who will benefit from the proceeds" and pointed out that it was nice for Navy Relief to be on the "receiving end" for a change. The money raised at the ball will help to offset Navy Relief's large expenditures in the Hampton Roads Area, hub of some of the Navy's largest installations.

Presentation of the check came as the climax to a "Hollywood" weekend in which movie, stage, radio and television personalities contributed their talents to help raise funds for the relief group.

The 20th Century Fox movie "Titanic," based on the sinking of the luxury liner on her maiden voyage 41 years ago this month, was premiered especially for enlisted men. The movie company sent down a generous helping of Hollywood talent for personal appearances in connection with the premieres at the Norfolk Naval Base and the U. S. Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, Va.

On hand to spark the festivities was New York's tireless plugger for the Navy, television and radio star Ed Sullivan, who emceed the "Bring Back Vaudeville" presentation which highlighted the Navy Relief Ball.

Top Navy talent from installations throughout the Fifth Naval District teamed up with the professionals to present a one hour and 45 minute stage show at the ball.

Months of work had gone into the planning of the ball, and enlisted men and officers from bases and ships throughout the District assisted members of the Navy Relief Society in staging the event.

MCAS, KANEHOE BAY, HAWAII. Seven recently-arrived officers have been named to the staff of Brig. Gen. James P. Riseley, CG of the 1st Provisional Marine Air-Ground Task Force, FMF, at Marine Corps Air Station here.

Lt. Col. Clifford F. Quilley has been named as assistant chief of staff (G-3); while Maj. Walter E. Stuenkel has been assigned as Naval gunfire officer. Air operations officer is Maj. William N. Case and Maj. William J. Zaro has been named as assistant chief of staff (G-1) and staff secretary. Assistant chief of staff (G-4) is Maj. John R. Hyneman. Maj. Aaron M. CHIEF OF STAFF of the newly organized 1st Provisional Marine Air-Ground Task Force at Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii, Col. Boeker C. Batterton, USMC, is pictured greeting his wife, Mary Lee, upon her arrival. Brig. Gen. James P. Riseley is Task Force CG.

WEST POINT, N. Y. The first sign of Spring at West Point is the annual Spring Fashion Show and Dance sponsored by the Daughters of the U. S. Army. The affair was attended by over 400 this year and the money raised was donated to the National DUSA scholarship fund. Under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. W. Dunham, the program was arranged in three sequences showing the Army Brat, the Army Teenager, and the Army Wife. The commentator for the evening's program was Mrs. P. W. Phillips, the granddaughter of Mrs. R. L. Howze of Washington.

Army Brats participating in the showing of children's togs included Barbara Waters, John and Bill Waters, Jon and Lee Cagle, Maureen Michaelis, Charlotte and Alicia Phillips, Casey Dunham, Mac Gorder, Maile and Brink Miller, Randy, Laurie and Murray Roberts, Patty and Caroline Slayden, Bonnie Bixby, Cathy and Barry Smith, Kathy McIntyre, Leslie Exton, Susan Helfert, Ann Belser, Frances Hillyard, and Karen Heinlein. Much credit goes to Mrs. F. J. Roberts for so ably directing the children.

The Junior Group of the West Point Chapter of the DUSA took part in the show as teenagers. Under the direction of Mrs. H. M. Exton, the following teenagers participated: Connie Bessell, Lee Anne Hillyard, Phyllis Miles, Tish Heinlein, Lyn Nordlie, Terri Farnsworth, Carol Ruckman, Mary Lou

■ ANN ARBOR, MICH. The Air Force Women's Club of the University of Michigan will hold their regular meeting and coffee at the Michigan League the evening of 21 April.

Maj. Earl K. Sample and Maj. Irving Taylor of the 30th Air Division, Willow Run, Mich., and Mr. George P. Smith, Civilian Ground Observer Corps, will give talks entitled, "Your Place in Our Defense Picture."

Mrs. P. C. Dow will be hostess for the evening, assisted by Mrs. D. S. Gane, and Mrs. R. E. Gay; and Mrs. R. R. Moore will be at the coffee table.

FUNDS FOR WELFARE. Two allied officers' wives are enjoying a sale. Mrs. Earl Stanley, has sold Mrs. L. P. Gorley just the little dress she wanted. They are in the Thrift Shop, which caters to Allied personnel stationed in the Naples area and is managed by Mrs. Stanley, is operated by the Allied Officers' Wives Club on a non-profit basis. A premium of ten per cent is deducted from all sales with proceeds going to various welfare organizations in Naples.

■ HAMPTON ROADS POE, VA. Mrs. Ernest J. Markovic is the fifth president of the Hampton Roads Port of Embarkation Officers' Wives' Club organized in October 1951.

Mrs. Markovic took office as president, succeeding Mrs. Don Haley. Other officers installed were Mrs. Lem Cabanis, vice president; Mrs. George R. Hansen, treasurer, and Mrs. Howard T. Clouse, secretary.

A luncheon preceded the ceremony and a "Crazy Hat" skit followed. Ribbons for outstanding hats were awarded Mrs. George Smith, most unusual; Mrs. Robert Feay, funniest, and Mrs. Don Haley, prettiest.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Floyd Elisfor, chairman; Mrs. Ralph Bitler, Mrs. William Moseley and Mrs. Ford Elliott.

■ KINDLEY AFB, BERMUDA. The Kindley Women's Council, consisting of eight wives of base officers, NCO's and airmen, recently held their second meeting since the forming of the group with Col. Richard F. Bromiley.

According to Colonel Bromiley, the group has, within its less than two months of operation, made great strides to accomplish the aims of the organization.

The primary purpose of the Women's Council, which was originally started on an experimental basis, is to provide a better understanding of base problems for the Council, representing the wives of military personnel at Kindley, and for Colonel Bromiley, representing the military element of the base, so that whatever problems come up they may be better analyzed or considered from a different viewpoint and studied from these angles.

During the first meeting, discussion was limited primarily to problems and suggestions that the women felt deserved attention. At the second meeting, Colonel Bromiley was able to report on the action taken on these suggestions.

The members of the Kindley Women's Council are Mrs. William E. Burcham, Mrs. Claude Conrad, Mrs. Anton Letang, Mrs. Lester Sawyer, Mrs. William Spence, Mrs. Richard D. Stowell, Mrs. George H. Thomas, and Mrs. Phil L. Wells.

■ SIGNAL CORPS CENTER AND FT. MONMOUTH, N. J. Improvement of the figure and make-up to meet the fashion's trends, was the topic featured at the Women's Club monthly meeting last Wednesday.

The program included a lecture and demonstration by Miss Joy Teller, head of the exercise department of the Richard Hudson Salon, N. Y., on spot-reducing routines and posture control.

Mrs. Catherine Herman of the Dubarry success school discussed vital beauty problems, including skin care and flattering make-up, as well as hair styling. She illustrated the importance of properly blending color tone in make-up with costume color and lighting effects.

The program was coordinated through the New York World-Herald Tribune's club service bureau. Mrs. E. L. Littell was chairman of the arrangement committee, composed of wives of officers of the Signal Corps Engineering Laboratories.

Mrs. E. R. Petzing, presiding at the business meeting, commended members for their response to the Red Cross appeal for blood donations during the recent bloodmobile's visit to Ft. Monmouth. Mrs. Fred Timmerman was blood chairman.

■ FT. LESLIE J. McNAIR. Brig. Gen. and Mrs. H. B. Powell entertained about 75 guests at a cocktail party in their quarters on 11 April. It was the Powell's 25th wedding anniversary and their attendants, Col. E. M. Starr, who was best man and Mrs. Starr who was matron of honor were guests from Ft. Meade. Col. and Mrs. William J. Cashion of Philadelphia, Pa., were guests for the party and for the weekend. Bill Cashion, son of Col. and Mrs. William J. Cashion spent the previous week visiting with General and Mrs. Powell.

A Teen Age Dance was held Friday in the Ball Room of the Officers' Mess. Brig. Gen. and Mrs. B. M. Hovey were chairmen of the dance. Bob Dewey, son of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. L. R. Dewey was Master of Ceremonies and headed the entertainment committee. There was a floor show, a vocalist, and two guitar players. Chaperones for the dance were Brig. Gen. and Mrs. B. M. Hovey, Col. and Mrs. H. R. Jackson, Col. and Mrs. C. H. Clarke and Col. and Mrs. D. B. Diehl. There were about 200 guests. Prior to the dance Sandra Hovey, daughter of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. B. M. Hovey, entertained at a Buffet Supper in their quarters for 14 guests.

■ NORFOLK, VA. Members of the Supply Officers' Wives' Club modeled gowns at a fashion show which featured the club's monthly luncheon 16 April at the Armed Forces Staff College.

The show, according to Mrs. John E. Wood, honorary president and wife of Rear Admiral Wood, commanding officer of the Norfolk Naval Supply Center, was sponsored by the Raleigh Shop of Colley Ave.

The Supply Officers' Wives' Club, one of the largest of its kind in the Tidewater area, is comprised of the wives of Navy Supply Corps officers attached to ships and shore activities in this vicinity. The supply wives who modeled the clothing are Mrs. Lawrence V. Hallberg, Mrs. J. C. Aspinwall, Jr., Mrs. Louis F. ReDavid, Mrs. Willard C. Johnson, Mrs. James V. DeSanto, and Mrs. L. H. Litchfield.

During the social hour the group sang songs to the piano accompaniment of Mrs. Osceola Hauge.

A new feature of the club's monthly luncheons was the start of work of a newly-formed hospitality committee headed by Mrs. J. D. Parks as chairman. The group was formed to introduce new members to other wives and to make newcomers feel more at home. The committee includes: Mrs. E. Criner, Mrs. D. H. Hoard, Mrs. L. F. ReDavid, and Mrs. L. V. Hallberg.

■ EGLIN AFB, FLA. The Home Talent Show featured at the April luncheon meeting of the Officers' Wives' Club was one of the most successful programs of the year. Wives of officers serving with the Deputy for Operations with Mrs. W. P. Putnam chairman, sponsored the affair.

The display included paintings, ceramics and needlework.

During the luncheon, clothing made by members was modeled in a fast-moving style show. Enthusiastic comments for the children's style show were made by Mrs. H. E. Wells.

Immediately following the Fledgling Show, 29 adult models wearing clothes of their own making were seen. Mrs. F. K. Serkland was commentator.

Inspired decorations carrying out an April

Showers theme were delightfully executed with little parasols, spring flowers and attractive bits of sewing displays on the dining tables. The stage backdrop featured a life-sized doll dressed in ruffled gingham, seeking protection from shiny silver raindrops by means of a captivating umbrella. The provocative doll was made by Mrs. Wm. T. Camm.

Prizes in the arts and crafts display were awarded as follows: Paintings, 1st—Mrs. Oscar A. Bradford; 2d—Mrs. E. J. Crahan; 3d—Mrs. Thomas M. Anthony.

Needlework, 1st—Mrs. J. E. Pashall; 2d—Mrs. Max Denton; 3d—Mrs. Wm. R. Fisher; 4th—the between Mrs. D. B. Smith and Mrs. Ray P. Tucker.

Handcraft, 1st—Mrs. D. O. Beck; 2d—Mrs. John Beeler; 3d—Mrs. Sanford P. Mandell. Fledgling style show winners were: 1st—Susie Alexander, daughter of Lt. and Mrs. Theodore W. Alexander, wearing an imported Swiss organdy made by Mrs. Albert W. Volkman; 2d—Barbara and Beverly Almet and their mother, Mrs. Elliott S. Almet; 3d—Joanne McCartney, daughter of W/O and Mrs. John W. McCartney; 4th—Patricia Martin, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Ewell Martin.

Adult style show winners were: 1st—Mrs. Robert O. Bergman; 2d—Ruth Ann Bacon, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Lewis H. Bacon; 3d—Mrs. Leo E. Fielder, Jr.; 4th—Mrs. H. R. Kenaston.

Judges were Mrs. R. E. Yeager, owner of a dress shop; Mrs. Betty Houston, a home economics teacher, and Miss Jo Davis, an art teacher.

Working with Mrs. Putnam to stage this unusual program were the following committee chairmen: Entries, Mrs. T. W. Ferebee and Mrs. C. A. Brannon; Publicity, Mrs. Wm. R. Fisher and Mrs. R. H. Allyn; Staging, Mrs. M. E. Wardell; Decorating, Mrs. P. J. Maricles; Music, Mrs. B. W. Marshall, Jr.; Displays, Mrs. C. H. Ham; Fledgling Show, Mrs. V. N. Curtis; Style Show, Mrs. C. T. Matheson; Prizes, Mrs. F. E. Quinlan, and Judging, Mrs. J. L. Zeller.

Mrs. H. R. Kenaston, president, conducted a short business meeting in which the following members were appointed to serve on the nominating committee: Mrs. Leo E. Fielder, Jr., chairman; Mrs. Raymond A. Fulton, Mrs. Howard L. Harris, Mrs. Lewis H. Bacon, Mrs. A. C. Ellason and Mrs. D. B. Smith.

COL. FOR A DAY

■ FT. BENNING, GA. The son of an enlisted man here will lay aside his comic books and Roy Rogers' guns 2 May and assume the duties of a regimental commander.

The "colonel-for-a-day" program, which is being sponsored jointly by Service Club No. 2 and Combat Training Command, is designed to acquaint a Ft. Benning youth with the duties of his father's commanding officer, according to Miss Lois Bremer, who originated the project.

All boys between the ages of five and nine, who are the sons of Combat Training Command enlisted men, are eligible for election to the honorary colonel position, according to Miss Bremer, who is program chairman of Service Club No. 2.

Each of the seven battalions which compose Ft. Benning's Combat Training Command will be asked to select one boy as its candidate for regimental commander.

Col. Frank Elder, commanding officer of Combat Training Command, will award the winner a set of "eagles," insignia of a colonel. The other candidates then will be designated battalion commanders and will serve as the youthful colonel's staff.

■ FT. GEORGE G. MEADE, MD. The members of the Ft. Geo. G. Meade Woman's Club will give a tea on 21 April at 3:30 P. M. at the Officers' Club, honoring Mrs. Edward H. Brooks, wife of Lieutenant General Brooks, who is retiring in April.

Mrs. Brooks, who has been honorary president of the Woman's Club, will be presented with an orchid corsage, and those receiving with her will be the Mesdames D. Bratton, T. Stayton, F. K. Hayman, president of the club; J. A. Hamilton, W. S. Renshaw and C. Hawkins.

Spring flowers, yellow tapers and soft music by the Second Army Band will provide the festive background. Those presiding at the tea tables will be the Mesdames L. D. Carter, P. C. Haines 3d, F. M. Harris, W. G. Caldwell, J. R. Jeter, W. N. Thomas, J. H. Fye, E. M. Starr, L. W. Foy, R. T. Burkette, G. H. Maloney, T. H. Davies, H. G. Ott, W. B. Merritt, G. F. Leone and M. J. Geraghty. Chairman for the occasion is Mrs. J. A. Samouche, who is being assisted by Mesdames H. D. Avery, C. L. Ricks and W. G. Caldwell.

■ CAMP PICKETT, VA. Floral decorations were the topic of conversation, and the order of the day, as the Camp Pickett Women's Club held its monthly business meeting and luncheon here on 7 April.

The highlight of the meeting, following the luncheon, was a lecture on the art of displaying flowers by Mrs. LaNeave, the guest speaker. Mrs. LaNeave explained several displays she had brought with her and concluded her talk by making several more arrangements from flowers brought in by club members, showing what could be done with each type of flower.

Mrs. J. L. Crawford, club president, and wife of Colonel Crawford of MRTC, presided at the meeting. The lecture was arranged for by Mrs. Able, wife of Col. B. C. Able, and chairman of the Entertainment Committee.

FT. BELVOIR, VA. Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, wife of the Secretary of Defense, visited here last Saturday to witness a major blood donation by the students of the Engineer Officer Candidate School.

The group set a new record for this area in the amount of blood donated by one unit in any one day. In six hours the men donated 354 pints of blood.

Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Stanley L. Scott, wife of the CG of The Engineer Center, Major General Scott, viewed the proceedings with interest, and talked to the boys during the operation. The remainder of the school, about 250 more men, will duplicate the project today, 18 April, from 9:00 a. m. to 3:00 p. m.

Present at the donation today will be Mrs. Sturgis, wife of Maj. Gen. Samuel D. Sturgis, Jr., Chief of Engineers, and Mrs. Robinson, wife of Brig. Gen. B. L. Robinson, Deputy Chief of Engineers.

FT. McPHERSON, GA. Lt. Col. Samuel G. Ramsey, Jr., former Chief of Third Army Intelligence Section, has been assigned to the Far East Command for further duty. Colonel Ramsey is a native of Rocky Mount, N. C., and is married to the former Miss Julia May of that city. She and their five children will continue to reside at 117 McClellan Drive, East Point, Ga.

Winners of the duplicate bridge games played at the Officers' Open Mess, Third Army Headquarters, Ft. McPherson, have been announced. Last week's winners were: North-South, first, Maj. and Mrs. Eugene I. Peterson; second, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Fairbault; East-West, first, Lt. Col. Wurdeman and Miss Caruthers; second, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Downing. The winners of the first quarter series which was completed 30 March were, first, Captain Faulk; second, Colonel Duffy.

Service wives of the Chapel Guild are now busy carrying out their Share-Your-Magazine Campaign. Each month the Guild members gather pocket-sized books, comic books and current magazines which they distribute among the patients in the U. S. Army Hospital at Ft. McPherson. At the same time they distribute the new magazines and other publications, the Guild members are also picking up the old publications. Present membership of the Guild is 80.

ARMY WAR COLLEGE, CARLISLE, PA. The Officers Wives' Club of the Army War College held its monthly meeting 7 April. Those assisting during the luncheon and social hour were Mesdames W. M. Summers, Ben Sternberg, R. A. Turner, C. E. Hutchin, Jr., R. C. Works, E. I. Davis, W. H. Taylor, Jr., T. R. Stoughton, W. J. Allen, Jr., and W. A. Harris, all of whom are active in Girl Scout work on the Post. The program for the afternoon was presented by Troop 381 under the leadership of Mrs. N. R. Graves. The troop presented a Fashion Show under the guidance and management of Mrs. Andrew Lipscomb.

Those participating in the show were the Misses Jody Polk, Cindy Kerr, Marilyn Binkley, Penny Powers, Ann McAfee, Julia Stoughton, Mary Stoughton, Mickey Kelly, Madge Baya, Button Davis, Dabney Bixel, Jean Izenour, Karen Olson, Carolyn Haneke, Jean Schock, Mary Alice Rogers, Tenny Worthington, Teresa Metz, Patty McCaffrey, Barbara Pickard and Andrea Gershenow.

NAPLES, ITALY. There are many unique business shops in Naples. But there's none more popular with the service personnel located in this area than the "Thrifty Shop" operated by the Allied Officers Wives' Club. Volunteers carry the work load with Mrs. Earl W. Stanley handling the managerial chores. Wife of Navy Lieutenant E. W. Stanley and mother of three children, Mrs. Stanley still finds plenty of time to see that the shelves are well stocked and that the books are kept shipshape.

The Thrifty Shop is run on a non-profit basis with ten per cent of all sales set aside for welfare organizations in Naples.

PHILADELPHIA. At the Rittenhouse Square Signal Corps Officers Wives' Club on Thursday, 9 April, all signs pointed to the arrival of Spring, with all the ladies looking lovely in their "Easter Outfits." Mrs. John H. Russell, outgoing Chairman, greeted those present and made a short welcoming address to all new officers, turning the meeting over to the new Chairman, Mrs. John N. Bornholdt.

Mrs. Bornholdt, presiding at her first meeting, presented to the Club, Committee Chairmen for the coming year: Mrs. Harry Pikus, Custodian of Funds; Mrs. Willard R. MacAlaster, Publicity; Mrs. Walter J. Dyke, Social; Mrs. Michael Koltun, Membership; Mrs. Bernard L. Mathews, Jr., Program; Mrs. John H. Wooten, Hostess; Mrs. Anderson D. Meadows, Red Cross.

At this time, Mrs. Bornholdt, on behalf of the Club, also bid farewell to the Honorary Chairman, Mrs. W. Preston Corderman, who will soon be leaving with her husband, Brigadier General Corderman, who has recently been assigned to the Office, Assistant Chief of Staff, G-4, Washington, D. C.

After the 12:45 P. M. luncheon a group of five from the Junior League of Philadelphia discussed Open House Day at Fairmount Park on 9 May. Mrs. Shepley Evans, former President of the Junior League, and Mrs. John W. Whitaker gave descriptive talks on the historic homes on display. Modeling the costumes were Mrs. William G. Berlinger, Jr.—Empire Costume; Mrs. Francis T. Adams, Jr.—Colonial Costume, and Mrs. R. Ramsay Pennypacker—Quaker Costume.

Credit for the lovely luncheon was given Mrs. John M. Goodman and Mrs. Edwin M. Shaad, hostesses; Mrs. Oliver K. Maxwell, flowers, and Mrs. Eugene L. Weeks, program.

ANNAPOLIS, MD. Rear Adm. and Mrs. H. H. Jalbert entertained at cocktails on 11 April at the Alumni House.

Miss Joan Peley, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Peley of the Naval Base, Norfolk, Va., has been visiting Mrs. Joseph W. Vallant of Carvel Hall.

Capt. and Mrs. Wade DeWeese of King George St. had as their guest for several weeks Mrs. DeWeese's mother, Mrs. George B. Hillman of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Adm. and Mrs. L. H. Thebaud of Bristol, Conn., spent the weekend with Adm. and Mrs. Timothy Keleher of Prince George St.

Miss Ann Terhune Doyle, daughter of Mrs. William H. Doyle of Prince George St., and the late Captain Doyle, USMC-Ret., has returned to St. Mary's Seminary Junior College after spending Spring vacation with her mother.

Mrs. David Ansel, wife of Lieutenant Ansel, USN, and her two daughters, Caroline and Eleanor, are visiting her parents, Adm. and Mrs. A. Finley France, prior to joining her husband abroad.

Capt. Walton Hopkins of Norfolk, Va., and his daughter, Sandra, have returned after visiting his mother, Mrs. Walton Hopkins of Maryland Ave.

LACKLAND AFB, TEX. Cash returns to the government of $84,000 during 1952 were made by the base disposal section of Lackland Air Force Base. During the past year the base disposed of an average of more than a million pounds of salvaged material each month. This is expected to be topped in 1953 because of an intensified salvage drive to cut costs ordered by Brig. Gen. Wycliffe E. Steele, Lackland commanding general. The section is headed by Capt. G. E. Dickson and Technical Sergeant James W. Winder, who have a crew of five.

FITZSIMONS AH, COLO. Col. and Mrs. Albert Bierdeman and Lt. Col. and Mrs. John Plum will entertain at a cocktail pouring and supper party next Friday at the Fitzsimons Officers' Club.

Mrs. Phillip Young left on Tuesday for a week's vacation in Chicago.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Lloyd Taylor and children, Alan and Janie of Fitzsimons, spent the Easter holidays in Oklahoma.

Mrs. Charles Farinacci, Mrs. Edwin Goyette and Mrs. John Kellogg of Fitzsimons, were hostesses at a party on the 14th.

VALLEY FORGE AH, PA. Plans for a style show to be held in the spring season were discussed at the regular meeting of the Officers Wives' Club in the Officers' Open Mess. Announcement of the intention to hold the display of finery was made by Mrs. Kenneth A. Brewer, wife of the hospital commander, during the business session.

Winning the day's honors at the card tables were Mrs. George W. Ware, Mrs. Ralph R. Chapman, Mrs. William Kueker, and Mrs. Leo C. Partyka, at bridge, and Mrs. Samuel King, Mrs. W. N. Llewellyn, Mrs. Loren J. Bullock, and Mrs. LeGrand H. Thomas at canasta.

Sponsorship of the meeting was by the wives of the officers on the Surgical Service, with Mrs. Harold A. Conrad as chairman. The next meeting to be held on 5 May also will be arranged by Surgical Service wives who did not participate in planning for the April session.

ANKARA, TURKEY. The JAMMAT Woman's Club of Ankara, Turkey, recently elected new officers for their coming term. Mrs. William A. Arnold, first president of the club, who has departed with General Arnold for their new station in Austria, was succeeded as honorary president by Mrs. Whitfield J. Shepard. General Shepard is the new chief of JAMMAT.

The slate as elected at the regular monthly luncheon was: President—Mrs. E. F. Kelly, Jr.; Vice-president—Mrs. Maylon T. Scott; Secretary—Mrs. G. C. Salvo; Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. William Van Antwerp; Treasurer—Mrs. Louis M. Welter; and Asst. Treasurer—Mrs. Ralph Agnew.

The JAMMAT Woman's Club, in cooperation with the Turkish American Association and the Turkish American Woman's Cultural Society, made an extensive drive for clothing, blankets, kitchen utensils, etc., for the people affected by the recent earthquake tragedy in Western Turkey. Their combined efforts have already resulted in nine tons of relief equipment—collected, sorted, and delivered directly to the disaster area.

CAMP BUCKER, ALA. The Officers Wives' Club of the 164th Infantry Regiment recently elected Mrs. Robert O. Cain as president, Mrs. Kenneth F. Jansen as secretary and Mrs. Tilden J. Purdy, treasurer.

Other officers elected included: Mrs. Thurlow W. Breese, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Clifton C. Craig, 2d vice-president; Mrs. James F. Adams, assistant secretary, and Mrs. Clifford F. Reynolds, assistant treasurer.

FT. RICHARDSON, ALASKA. The post is currently in the process of conducting a campaign to assist the 5005th Air Force Hospital in its task of establishing a bank of whole blood and also a list of volunteers to give blood on a call basis as needed to care for the injured and ill personnel of the Ft. Richardson and Elmendorf AFB area. The drive was started by Col. Carl F. Duffner, post commander, who directed that his own name head the list of volunteers. Since then, the many units on the post have been active in recruiting blood donors. One battalion, the 147th Field Artillery, and one company, "K," of the 196th Infantry Regiment, have reported 100 per cent of the officers and men in their units as volunteers.

Another forward step was made at Ft. Richardson last week when Col. Earl F. Holton, Commanding Officer of the 196th Infantry Regiment, officially opened a new regimental dispensary. This new facility gives Ft. Richardson two excellent dispensaries to care for personnel on the post. The other is the First General Dispensary, which operates under post control. Opening ceremonies at the new 196th facility were attended by Post Commander Colonel Duffner, USARAL Surgeon Lt. Col. William J. Brown, and Ft. Richardson Post Surgeon Capt. Franklin Epstein.

Ft. Richardson's Trading Post and the mothers of boy scouts on the Post collaborated recently and held a successful cake and candy sale at the Trading Post. All cakes and candy were the product of the kitchens in the family quarters area, and the money raised will be used to assist the boy scouts to equip a crafts shop. Coordinating the sale were Mrs. Marshall S. Carter of the Trading Post and Mrs. Russell O. Daugherty of the Boy Scout Mothers.

CAMP ROBERTS, CALIF. Chaplain (Col.) Henry Tavel, Seventh Armored Division, has been notified that the Faculty and Board of Governors of the Hebrew Union College—Jewish Institute of Religion—will confer upon him the Honorary Degree of Doctor of Divinity, honoris causa. Hebrew Union was the first Jewish theological seminary established in America for the training of rabbis.

Mr. Nelson Glueck, President of the Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati, wrote Chaplain Tavel of the decision, remarking "Through this degree we should like to express to you our deep appreciation for your devotion and service to the Hebrew Union College. In particular to the College Library, and to express our high regard for your distinguished service in the United States Armed Forces both in time of war and in time of peace."

The degree will be conferred upon Chaplain Tavel at the Rockdale Avenue Temple graduation exercises 6 June.

Chaplain Tavel, the highest ranking Jewish chaplain in the United States Army, was assigned to Camp Roberts in October 1952. Prior to coming to Camp Roberts, he served three years in the European Theatre, headquartered in Heidelberg, Germany. While in Germany, Chaplain Tavel incorporated a collection of 1500 choice volumes of Judaica from the municipal librarian at Mannheim, Germany. This compilation included 1000 volumes in Hebrew: Talmuds and Bibles, and 500 German books on Jewish subjects, dating back to 1500, and had been collected down through the centuries by the Jews of Mannheim.

Among the 100 editions of the Talmud were 20 tractates of the Basel edition 1578-81, which were quite rare, as well as two volumes of the Grace edition of 1604 and one Lublin edition of 1619.

Chaplain Tavel presented the collection to the Library of the Hebrew Union College, Jewish Institute of Religion, at Cincinnati in November last year.

CARLISLE, PA. Dickinson College's Army R.O.T.C. unit held a day-long "open house" 17 April to provide Armed Forces officers, educators and the public with a better understanding of the experiment in R.O.T.C. training being conducted at Dickinson by the Army.

Maj. Gen. Hugh Milton, Department of the Army's executive for Reserve and R.O.T.C. affairs, and Dr. William W. Edell, Dickinson president, spoke at a luncheon for 100 visiting dignitaries.

Dickinson is the "pilot model" for the Branch-General curriculum being tested by the Armed Forces for possible use in all colleges having R.O.T.C. units. The Branch-General, in contrast to the specialization of the traditional R.O.T.C. training, gives broad, general instruction without reference to any one branch of the service.

MITCHEL AFB, N. Y. Col. John B. Wilson, Comptroller, Headquarters First Air Force, will serve as commanding officer of 600 airmen taking part in the Armed Forces Day parade in New York City on 16 May. This will be his fourth year as CO.

Col. James D. Flashman has assumed command of the 1802d AACSG Group. He commanded an aircraft warning group at Ladd AFB before coming to Mitchell.

M/Sgt. David M. Cordell has retired after 34 years of service. He retires in grade of Chief Warrant Officer.

Col. Louis M. Merrick, Base Commander, and members of his staff were guests of Mundy Peale, President, Republic Aviation Corporation, on 14 April. A luncheon followed a tour of the plant at Farmingdale, L. I.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. Mrs. John Campbell, wife of Lt. Campbell, who is Intelligence Officer for the 18th Fighter Interceptor Sqdn., was honored at a baby shower given 10 April by Mrs. James W. Lee and Mrs. James S. Kennedy at the home of Mrs. Lee.

Guests who attended were mesdames Robert Allard, David Ballou, Murry Choate, James Fetzer, Robert Frisch, Clyde Long, Keith Matson, David Putman, Dwight Orman, James Osborne, John Rogers, Roy Roush, Archie Stuart, and Donald Swankowski.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil. Col. Robert R. Linvill, formerly Deputy Chief of Staff of The Infantry Center, Ft. Benning, Ga., recently arrived here to assume new duties as Chief of the Infantry Training Section, U. S. Army Section, Joint Brazil-U. S. Military Commission.

During WW II Colonel Linvill served with the 1st Armored Division in North Africa, Italy and later in Germany. He was accompanied to Rio de Janeiro by his wife, his daughter, and his two sons.

Col. Robert E. Cron, Jr. arrived at the same time to be Chief of the Services Training Division. Prior to being assigned to Brazil, he was a student at the Industrial College of the Armed Forces. He was accompanied to Brazil by his wife and five-year-old son.

BERLIN, GERMANY. A picture history of the tradition-rich 6th Infantry Regiment from its founding at the end of the 18th century to the present was dedicated recently by Col. George P. Lynch, 6th Infantry Commanding Officer, in the K Company day room where the pictures are displayed.

Established in 1798, the crack regiment has taken part in every major conflict in which the U. S. has participated, earning a total of 38 Battle Honors through the years.

The picture display is made up of reproductions of old photographs, engravings, paintings, and for more recent years, Army combat photos. The pictures were collected by Lt. John A. Wickham, Jr., K Company commander, who contacted the Smithsonian Institute and major libraries in the States while compiling the history.

FT. SAM HOUSTON, TEX. Mrs. Thomas H. Swan, wife of Lt. Col. Swan, Executive Officer of the Fourth Army Judge Advocate's office, gave a tea at her quarters on Artillery Post 7 April in honor of Mrs. E. M. Brannon, whose husband, Major General Brannon, The Judge Advocate General, is inspecting Judge Advocate activities in the Fourth Army Area.

The guests included Mesdames Brannon, Robert M. Springer, Clarence E. Brand, Charles Cheever, L. J. Aebischer, Thomas J. Newton, B. E. Hoffman, Ernst C. Oeding, D. L. Manes, Ralph Wofford, Glen Walker, V. H. Newman, R. C. Erickson, Edmunds Travis, Sam F. Whitlock, Tom F. Phillips, S. S. McClendon, III, C. A. Cutrone, Jess Johnson and Ernest Stephens.

General and Mrs. Brannon were house guests of Col. and Mrs. Robert M. Springer at their new ranch style home at 812 Ridgemont Road in San Antonio. Colonel Springer, the Fourth Army Judge Advocate, escorted General Brannon and the Executive, JAGO, Colonel George W. Hickman, Jr., on the inspection tour.

CRAIG AFB, ALA. The NCO Officers Wives Club formed plans for their Spring Membership Tea at their business meeting early this month. Mrs. Wayne H. Fullbright, club president, issued an open invitation to the wives of all Craig non-commissioned officers to attend the tea which is to take place in the NCO Club.

An arts and crafts display, under the direction of Mrs. Robert D. Scheen, was the center of attraction of last week's meeting of (Please turn to Next Page)

R. Martinovich and Mrs. Randall S. Kane.

Hostesses were Mrs. Frank H. Robertson, Mrs. Don T. Kohler, Mrs. William Wallick and Mrs. C. E. Maw. Door prizes were won by Mrs. E. E. Jones, Mrs. M. G. Camerer and Mrs. William C. Potter.

LAFAYETTE, IND. Col. William G. Bowyer, Commandant of the Air Force ROTC, and Professor of Air Science and Tactics, Purdue University, has announced the names of 14 senior cadets who have been designated as Distinguished Air Force ROTC Students.

Designated as Distinguished AFROTC Students from the School of Electrical Engineering were: Arthur M. Bonneau, Donald R. Hamerla, Donald H. Jenter, and Charles C. Rogers. Four students from the School of Mechanical Engineering were selected as Distinguished AFROTC Students: Richard M. Ellis, Joseph P. Hession, Thomas C. Theller, and Donald E. Wentle.

Also honored for their achievements were David C. Horney, and Lawrence L. Lant, both from the School of Agriculture Engineering. From the School of Chemical Engineering, Donald L. Lamberson, and Vern W. Weekman were also named as Distinguished AFROTC Students, as were Alan K. Gudeman, from the School of Aeronautical Engineering, and Howard O. Westfall, from the School of Agriculture.

FT. KNOX, KY. At a recent meeting of the Ladies' Golf Subcommittee of the Ft. Knox Officers Mess, Mrs. H. J. Wheaton was re-elected chairman for the coming season.

Other officers named were: Mrs. William Hamilton, Jr., co-chairman and publicity director; Mrs. Hugh T. Paris, secretary; Mrs. W. J. Landry, Jr., treasurer; Capt. Almada Amlich, handicap and rules chairman; Mrs. Carl F. Tessmer and Mrs. James R. Porta, tournament co-chairman; Mrs. Edward L. Johnston, prize committee chairman. Mrs. J. H. Collier was elected honorary chairman.

SEATTLE, WASH. Recently ordered to the Port of Embarkation was Lt. Col. Fred W. Broderick. Assigned to the Office, Director of Services at the Port, Colonel Broderick, comes to Seattle from two years duty on Okinawa.

Maj. Carroll L. Lewis was recently appointed Chief, Signal Division, Seattle Port of Embarkation. He served in Korea for 16 months. Subsequent to this duty he was transferred to Japan where he was assigned to the Japanese National Police as a Signal advisor.

FT. LEE, VA. The 1953 drive for American Red Cross funds closed last week, with a record total of $12,859.63 collected. The proceeds topped those of last year's figure of $11,590.00 and exceeds any ever collected in any fund campaign at Fort Lee since 1944.

Chairman of the drive was Maj. Ralph Pennington, who announced that the WAC Training Center scored as the top per capita contributor with $1.22. The Quartermaster Replacement Training Center, however, collected the most money, a sum of $5,027.44.

OKINAWA. Some 60 ladies, members of the 97th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Group Women's Club and their guests, attended a luncheon on 8 April, at the Officers Club at Nupunja, Okinawa. Hostesses were Mrs. Wm. Murphy, Mrs. Wm. Reid, and Mrs. Lawrence Peterson, all of whose husbands are officers in the 65th AAA Battalion.

Mrs. Harry C. Brown, president presided at the meeting and introduced three new members who recently arrived on Okinawa: Mrs. Charles G. Sturm, Mrs. Edgar C. Thomas, and Mrs. Ralph F. Homan.

Guest of honor was Mrs. Roger H. Holt, wife of the assistant chief of staff G-3, Ryukyus Command.

Speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Miranda Oliver of London and Hong Kong. Mrs. Oliver, who is Hong Kong hostess for Inter-Island Travel Service, spoke on the British Crown Colony and showed a color film of this cosmopolitan city where East meets West, and which is visited each month by many members of the U.S. Forces, Ryukyus Islands and their families.

FT. BRAGG, N. C. "Rain," the sensational Somerset Maugham drama and latest production of the Ft. Bragg Players, opened here 16 April in an extremely successful revival of that sultry saga of the Pacific. Director was Lt. Col. Dick Glaeser, USMC.

In the raucous role of Sadie Thompson was Mrs. Dorothy Barlow. Sgt. Frank Heite was the consecrated clergyman, Reverend Davidson, playing the role with dignity and vitality.

Other major roles were taken by Hans Larson, Mrs. Mary Ellen Dixon, Lt. Ted Sachs, Mrs. Marie Bailey, Cpl. Dick Granlee, and Miss Sally Barnes.

The set, which had tropical storms lashing the stage, was designed and constructed by Maj. Wil Washcoe.

New Air Defense Unit

In Action In Alaska

The 11th Air Division (Defense) has been established at Ladd AFB, Alaska, to control the area of responsibility formerly under the control of the 5001st Composite Wing.

The 11th Air Division is commanded by Brig. Gen. Donald B. Smith, former CG of the 5001st Composite Wing. The Chief-of-Staff of the new division is Lt. Col. Allan A. Lathan.

The 5001st Composite Wing was disbanded with the establishment of the Air Division, and the responsibility of the base now falls to the commanding officer of the newly activated 5001st Air Base Wing, commanded by Col. Clair L. Wood, who will have the two-fold duties of commanding the base as well as the units assigned to the 5001st Air Base Wing.

Under the new arrangement, the CG of the 11th Air Division will be relieved from all the details regarding the operation of the base, leaving him more time for strategic and tactical planning concerning the vast area of responsibility, which includes all of Northern Alaska.

All the group headquarters formerly operating under the Composite Wing have been abolished and the tactical and operational squadrons report directly to the Commanding General of the 11th Air Division for administration and operational responsibility. The base administrative, housekeeping, maintenance and police organizations will now be responsible to the Base Commander for command administration. The operations and functions of the squadrons in the Air Base Wing will be controlled by the staff-directors of the 5001st Air Base Wing, however, the Directors will have no command responsibility over the subordinate squadrons.

The directors will be able to exercise the administrative details adherent to the operations of the squadrons with fewer personnel, and with much more rapidly than could the group commanders, in that they will not be held down by command responsibilities over the squadrons. The channel for command action will be directly between the Squadrons and the Wing Commander.

The excess personnel created by the reorganization, will be absorbed within the command until such times as they are due for their scheduled rotation to the United States.

Ex-Marine Aide to Army Sec.

Announcement has been made of the appointment of James Simpson, Jr., Director of Marshall Field & Co., as Civilian Aide to the Secretary of the Army for the State of Illinois.

In 1937, Mr. Simpson was elected to the 73d Congress from the Tenth District. Two years later, he was admitted to the Illinois Bar to practice law. In 1940, he was elected Republican State Central Committeeman, which he vacated three years later to enter the U. S. Marine Corps. He served in the Marines for 36 months, 24 of which he saw action in the South Pacific during the Solomon campaign.

Airlines Fly For Defense

Capital Airlines flew over a million miles during 1952 on special assignments for the Defense Department.

This service, known as the Civil Air Movement, carried group movements of military personnel from training and dispersal centers to bases throughout the United States. In addition, Capital continued to operate aircraft in the Pacific Airlift, according to the firm's annual report.

28th Air Div. A. G.

Maj. John F. Lawler, Jr., has been named adjutant general for the 28th Air Division (Defense) at Hamilton AFB, Calif. Before assuming his present duties, he was an Operations Staff officer at Division headquarters.

1st Lt. James M. Uptain, former Adjutant General, has been named Aide de Camp to the Division's Commander, Brig. Gen. James W. Andrew.

Shift QMC Colonels

Col. Paul Haines has been assigned to the Columbus General Depot, as Executive Officer, relieving Col. Carl Kohls who has been ordered to report to the Utah General Depot for duty as Quartermaster Supply Officer, vice Col. Alexander Dobak who has been assigned to duty as Post Quartermaster at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

Col. Hoke Wofford, Field Inspector General, N. Y., has been assigned to duty as Executive Officer, Atlanta General Depot, Ga., effective 15 May.

Col. Roy T. Evans, Jr., has been relieved as Commandant, The Quartermaster School, Ft. Lee, Va., and duty with the 9135 TSU, and assigned to duty with the USAFFE, effective 23 July 1953.

Col. Joseph C. Odell, Commanding Officer, Oakland Quartermaster Procurement Agency, Calif. has been assigned to duty with the USA, Europe, effective 1 July.

Move Mortar Course

The 42 heavy mortar battalion course at Ft. McClellan, Ala., will be transferred to the Ft. Benning, Ga., Infantry School early in July when a class of 50 students reports for training.

The five-week course is open to graduates of officer candidate and associate company officer classes who expect assignment with Infantry heavy mortar units.

The course, which is designed to train gunnery officers in the tactical aspects of the control firing by Infantry heavy mortar companies and battalions, will be conducted by the Mortar Committee of the Weapons Department. Students also will be trained in forward observation procedures, survey and operation of the fire direction center, according to Lt. Col. W. O. Witherspoon, Mortar Committee chief.

"This is the development of the recognition of the need of heavy mortar in the Infantry," Colonel Witherspoon said. "During World War II, the Chemical Corps fired heavy mortar, and the Infantry liked the results so well it put a heavy mortar company in each Infantry regiment," he said.

Plan Inf. ROTC Tng.

Training in leadership will be stressed at this summer's ROTC cadet infantry training camp at Ft. Benning, Ga., where some 2700 college and university students will attend a six-week encampment beginning 20 June.

Fort the first time, according to Col. William J. McConnell, executive officer in charge of planning the training schedule, the cadets will be required to rate other men in their platoon on such qualities as cooperation, initiative, appearance and military bearing.

The cadets also will be given a leaders' reaction test which consists of a series of tactical and non-tactical tests designed to determine how well a particular cadet leads a 10-man group in carrying out various maneuvers. Furthermore, the cadets will be encouraged to consider the reaction of their fellow-trainees under combat conditions.

Army Promotes 149 to Temp. Lt. Col.; Will Exhaust Eligibles Next Month

THE Army this week announced the temporary promotion to lieutenant colonel of 48 Regular Army, 1 National Guard and 98 Reserve majors who are line officers and 1 Regular and 1 Reserve chaplain to lieutenant colonel. The promotions extend through No. 1137 on the eligibility list. Cut-off was 19 Nov. 1946.

The two chaplains are Ariel H. Achtermann, USAR, and Maury Hundley, Jr., USA. It is expected that the names of line officers who have been on the recommended list for promotion to lieutenant colonel will be exhausted next month. The Army undoubtedly will announce shortly plans for new selections to this rank.

Obituaries

Lt. Francis E. Harris, USCG-Ret.

Lt. Francis Edward Harris, USCG-Ret., 56, died suddenly 2 April 1953 at his home in Swampscott, Mass.

Lt. Harris started his 32 years of service from Denver, Colo., in 1917 when he enlisted in the Navy. Upon completion of four years' service he enlisted in the Marine Corps and served one enlistment. In 1925, he enlisted in the Coast Guard in New York City.

Lt. Harris retired from active duty in 1949. A military funeral was held with a firing squad and officers from USCG Air Station, Salem, Mass., attending. Members of Leon Abbott Post 57, American Legion, and Joseph Stevens Post 1240 also participated. Burial was in the World War I Veterans lot in Swampscott Cemetery. Lt. Harris was a member of the Retired Officers Association, Washington, D. C.

Survivors are his widow, Loretta A. Harris (Simoneau), a daughter and two sons.

Maj. C. L. Pierce, AUS-Ret.

Final rites for Maj. Chauncey L. Pierce were held 14 April at Medford, Oreg., with Chaplain Henry Anderson officiating.

Major Pierce was born 6 Apr. 1894 at Marble Rock, Ia., and was married to Marie Maldonado at Ft. Crook, Nebr., in Aug. 1928.

Major Pierce enlisted in the 56th Inf. Iowa National Guard, 12 June 1912, at Mason City, Ia. He served on the Mexican border in 1916 and 1917, and was discharged as first sergeant of 1st Co., 4th Officers' Training School, Camp Dodge, Ia., 25 Aug. 1918, to accept a commission in the Army as a second lieutenant.

He was graduated from the Infantry School at Ft. Benning, Ga., in 1928. A member of the Organized Reserve he was ordered to active duty with the CCC, in Oregon in 1933.

On 1 May 1924 he was ordered to duty at Ft. MacArthur, Calif., with the Hq. Co. 9th Serv. Command, where he remained until his retirement.

Major Pierce is survived by his widow, Marie, of R. Route No. 2, Box 385, Medford, a daughter, Marjorie L. Martin of Oakland, Calif., a son, James, of Medford, another son, Harold, USN, USNOTS, China Lake, Calif., and a brother, Harry, of Arpin, Wisc. There are 10 grandchildren.

Col. John H. Ball, USA-Ret.

Col. John H. Ball, USA-Ret., died at his home at Williamsport, Pa., on 28 Feb., the result of a heart attack.

A veteran of both world wars, in the second of which he made the Bataan Death March and was a prisoner of the Japanese for three years, Colonel Ball was born in Tower City, Pa., the son of Jacob and Katie Ball. He commanded "D" Battery of the 28th Division, when it was mustered into Federal service in 1917, and went with it to France. Following World War I, he remained in the Regular Army and organized the North Carolina National Guard's artillery training program. His last assignment was as a member of the U. S. Army Advisory Board to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist forces. Upon retiring from active service in 1947, Colonel Ball established his home in Williamsport, where he participated prominently in the civic, Masonic, Civil Defense and American Legion life of the community.

Surviving are four brothers and two sisters, the Messrs. George W. Ball of 465 Reynolds St., South Williamsport, Amos W. Ball of DuBoistown, Pa., Charles M. Ball of Philadelphia, Ralph W. Ball of Allentown, Pa., Mrs. Raymond Purnell of Tamaqua, Pa., and Mrs. William Taylor of Allentown.

Burial was at Tower City, on 5 March.

Asks College Plan

called or recalled to duty expires at the end of fiscal 1953 "and must be extended if adequate medical care is to be provided."

At the same time, he disclosed that the recently revised ratio of doctors to men in uniform will bring about a cut of more than three thousand medical men. "By next year," he said, "there will be 3,200 fewer doctors and dentists in uniform than there would have been under the ratio in effect two months ago, assuming we have the same number of total men in uniform."

Make Careers More Attractive

By 1960, however, the Defense Department hopes to have in operation "a plan to insure an adequate supply of doctors and dentists without previous military service." He added that a feature of the plan "is an attempt to make military careers more attractive for doctors and dentists so that a larger proportion of those who acquire military experience will choose to remain in uniform."

Secretary Hannah said there is "a great incentive for devising means to achieve a more efficient utilization of manpower," and although the complete answer is not in hand, "we are not discouraged by the prospects." He said "military manpower can be conserved, and employed far more efficiently, if there is enough determination to make the necessary changes."

President Challenges Communist World

extension of the superficially amiable discussions of how the safe use of air corridors to Berlin can be furthered. Just now it is taking the form of combining the three existing corridors (British, French, and American) into one. If the combination provides appropriate width for the new channel, it is worth considering, for while such a location would obviously lengthen the air ride to Berlin for two of the Allies, it would provide them with a path sufficiently wide to improve the chances of their getting through in any sort of local bad weather. We will be learning pretty soon how wide the Russians will agree to make it.

We are getting a better understanding of the Korean situation, too, now that our chiefs of state have stressed the relationship of the Korean front to the European front in Communist planning. Both are in Communism's world program, and each is operated with a view to helping the other. The initial Chinese acceptance of our long-standing proposal for sick-and-wounded exchange was impressively timed to accompany the apparent improvement of relations in Europe, and both of them to the NATO Council meeting of next week, which Moscow ardently hopes will mark a let-down of Western enterprise.

THE ALL-ECLIPSING MATTER of interest in the Far East at the moment, of course, is the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners next week. Ours are a handful of the whole number (apparently 5 per cent) but a precious handful. When we will recover the main body of our prisoners in Red hands is not yet determinable. And to this anxiety is added another which only this past week emerged publicly. This is over the mental state of a considerable number of our unfortunate soldiers of all ranks who, we have reason to fear, have been forced through the "brainwashing" techniques which Russia developed long ago for production of "confessions" employed in Moscow's fake trials. That those techniques have been adopted in China became fully known some weeks ago, with the return of a few shattered victims of such villainous techniques. Some were men whose superior physical and mental equipment failed them. It now is widely believed that a portion of our men in Red hands for two years or more have been subjected to that savage will-breaking process, in quest of more "confessions" of anti-Americanism, to be employed for Red propaganda purposes.

It is odd that on the eve of such a development Moscow, for its own mysterious reasons, should have admitted officially Russian courts' own use of "illegal" means for "extorting" such confessions in the case of the Jewish doctors. It adds to our anxiety for our own unlucky men. The Defense Department last week-end issued official warning that some of our weakened prisoners may turn up with declarations of Red affiliation; the public must be prepared for exactly that, and our own medical services must be prepared for giving these unhappy men as much rest as they need for recovery.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER this week announced a plan for examining intelligently the state of our relations in Latin America, and the prospective sending of Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State College, on a good-will tour of Central and South American nations. This vast area of the western hemisphere has been gravely neglected for years, and evidence is ample that Communism, on the other hand, has been cultivating certain areas assiduously, to American injury. There is among the Latin-American nations no single problem which will yield to a single cure, and one of our troubles is that many of our thinkers have been misled by that assumption. Dr. Eisenhower's role, rather, is to examine and identify the varying problems, and suggest the appropriate ways to cope with them. This can prove to be one of the most important of recent missions abroad.

Vice Adm. Riggs to Head D. C. Brokerage Office

Burton, Cluett & Dana, members of the New York Stock Exchange, have announced the opening of an office in Washington, D. C., at 1001 Connecticut Avenue, N.W., under the management of Vice Adm. Ralph S. Riggs, USN-Ret. The office will be under the direction of Frederick J. Burrell, formerly assistant secretary of the National Savings and Trust Company, Washington.

Vice Admiral Riggs, a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy, served in the Pacific all through World War II, earning 15 Battle stars. For outstanding service as Destroyer Force Commander in the Battle of the Kormandorskies, an engagement against superior Japanese forces, he was awarded the Navy Cross. His next sea command was the Battleship South Dakota, operating with Admirals Halsey and Spruance, followed by command of a cruiser division and various task groups which took him into the Southwest Pacific, Philippines, Okinawa and Japan, and the Dutch Islands. In the latter engagement he commanded the support force in the tough fight to recapture the great oil fields at Balikpapan, Borneo.

On 1 Aug. 1952, on his own request, he was retired as a vice admiral by the then Secretary of the Navy Mathews after 37 years of naval service.

In the course of his naval career he served as aide to Assistant Navy Secretaries Charles Edison, Lewis Compton and Ralph Bard. He was promoted to rear admiral in June of 1944. His last service was as Assistant Chief of Naval Operations and Nat. Dir. of Naval Reserve.

B-26 To Transport

Air Research Aviation Service Co. of Los Angeles has converted a WW II Martin B-26 attack bomber into a sleek, 16-passenger transport.

A 10-passenger lounge compartment with picture windows has been built where waist gunners formerly fired 50 calibre machine guns. The former bomb bay area has been converted into accommodations for six passengers.

The most noticeable exterior modification is the long, straight dorsal fin that reaches almost the length of the fuselage. Horizontal elliptical picture windows have been installed just behind the trailing edge of the wing. It has been equipped with a 2100 take-off horsepower engine with a cruising speed of almost 300 miles an hour.

Army Aircraft Contract

The Spartan Aircraft Corporation, Tulsa, Okla., has been awarded a contract for the maintenance of all aircraft belonging to the new Army Aviation School at Ft. Sill, Okla.

All echelons of maintenance will be performed on contract, an arrangement which is believed to be the first of its kind by any of the military services.

The new arrangement is expected to result in a 20 per cent saving in money, as well as offering more efficient maintenance. A shortage of Army mechanics has made it difficult to maintain the stable work force necessary for proper maintenance. Ft. Sill officials said better utilization of Army mechanics will be achieved, since it will no longer be necessary to keep some of the graduates at Fort Sill as part of the maintenance force, rather than sending them to field units.

Col. David W. Hayes, G-4, pointed out that Army mechanics are expensive to train, when costs are figured on the basis of their short term of utilization. Men on two-year tours of duty spend more than half of that time in training, leaving a comparatively short time in which to apply their mechanical skill.

Synthetic Jet Lubricant

A synthetic jet engine lubricant, designed to meet the needs of the new high-power jet aircraft, was announced this week by the Standard Oil Development Company, central research and engineering affiliate of the Standard Oil Company (N.J.). The new type of lubricant was developed by this company and its affiliated research laboratories in England.

Recent advances in jet engine design have resulted in aircraft power plants which will produce enormous power. Much more powerful than the present-day jets and the largest conventional piston engines now in regular use, these latest designed, power-packed jet engines cannot be lubricated with conventional petroleum oils.

The new lubricant is comprised chiefly of chemicals known as esters. These ester-type synthetic lubricants can be "built" to have tailor-made properties by selecting the proper starting materials or "building blocks," and putting them together in a regulated fashion. The starting materials for producing esters can be obtained from petroleum, although the present product is not yet derived entirely from petrochemicals.

Rear Adm. Bell Takes Post

As VP of Auto Dealers Assoc.
Rear Adm. Frederick J. Bell, USN (Ret.), recently-appointed Executive Vice-President of the National Automobile Dealers Association, assumed officially the duties of his new position on 12 April. Prior to becoming associated with the national new car dealer association, he was Director of Human Relations and a Director of McCormick and Company, Inc., of Baltimore.

A graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy in the Class of 1924, Admiral Bell served in the Navy until 1948 when he retired at his own request. During World War II he commanded a destroyer squadron in the Pacific.

Nationally known as an authority on management and human relations, the new N.A.D.A. Executive Vice-President has served as a member of many important management groups including: Business Advisory Council, Baltimore City Schools; Committee on Government Expenditures, U. S. Chamber of Commerce; Employee Relations Committee, Grocery Manufacturers of America; Personnel Planning Council, American Management Association; and Research Committee on Management Development, American Management Association. He is an Industry Member, National Labor Management Manpower Policy Committee, Washington, D. C.

As Executive Vice-President of the National Automobile Dealers Association, known throughout the automotive industry as "N.A.D.A.," Admiral Bell becomes leader of one of the country's largest business organizations with a membership of more than 34,000 new car and new truck dealers located in all sections of the United States.

Gen. Phillips Named to AIA Guided Missile Post

Maj. Gen. J. F. Phillips, USAF-Ret., recently CG of the Air Force's Cambridge Research Center, Mass., has joined the Technical Service of the Aircraft Industries Association in Washington, D. C. He will coordinate activities of the association's newly-organized Guided Missile Committee. Announcement of the appointment was made by Admiral DeWitt C. Ramsey, USN-Ret., president of the AIA.

The new Guided Missile Committee will act in behalf of guided missile manufacturers on collective problems regarding research, engineering, design, development, construction and testing of guided missiles.

General Phillips, who retired from the Air Force on 31 March after 30 years of military service, has had wide experience in aircraft production and in aeronautical research and development. In recent years, he has served as Air Force secretary of the Research & Development Board, Assistant Chief of the Procurement Group of the Army General Staff, Commanding General of the Philippine Air Materiel Area, and Assistant Chief of Staff for Materiel of the Pacific Air Command.

At the Cambridge Research Center, he directed research and development in electronics, geophysics, radio chemistry and radio biology.

Within the next several weeks, General Phillips will visit a number of U. S. guided missile plants. Results of the survey will be evaluated and used in preparation of a cooperative program to be presented in the near future for approval by guided missile manufacturers.

Electronics Industry Vital To Defense, Says Gen. Putt

The importance of the electronics industry has reached such proportions in our defense planning that the nation's welfare and security depends upon its continued success and reliability. Appreciation of this fact is the greatest single responsibility of engineering management today.

These are the opinions of Maj. Gen. Donald L. Putt, vice commander of the Air Research and Development Command, set forth recently in a speech before the Institute of Radio Engineers at its national convention in New York.

Despite the "tremendous job" which the electronics industry has done in the past, General Putt pointed out what he considered its two basic shortcomings which he expressed hope would be corrected in view of the vast responsibility which the industry now exercises.

"To insure the fulfillment of military requirements in the future, management in the electronics industry should consider the establishment or creation of facilities permanently devoted to solving the problems of military electronics," he said. "Likewise, the industry should have well laid plans for conversion of their commercial capacity to defense work if and when required."

General Putt also expressed "grave concern" over the reluctance of some segments of the industry "to undertake military research and development work without the assurance or guarantee of a long production run to follow immediately."

"I am sure," he stated, "that all of you appreciate that if we could be sure that a research and development project would be successful and would immediately lead to production, it would no longer be research and development."

Growing more specific, General Putt outlined seven military needs in electronic equipment on which he said management should concentrate in order to "insure that the end items of military electronic equipment will satisfactorily meet the military needs." The seven were:

- 1) Execution of performance for which a piece of equipment was designed.
- 2) Greater reliability
- 3) Maintainability
- 4) Simplification
- 5) Producibility
- 6) Provision of test equipment, technical data and operating instructions for electronic equipment.
- 7) Minimization of the size, weight, complexity and cost of all items.

Speeding U. S. Aeronautic Output SAE Forum Topic

Immediate expansion of American aeronautic production by developing ways of breaking through current bottlenecks is the objective of a meeting to be held in New York City 20 April by the Society of Automotive Engineers. The meeting is the Society's Aeronautic Production Forum, which has been combined with the SAE National Aeronautic Meeting and Engineering Display, 20-24 April.

Believing that the chief factor for delay is lack of know-how, SAE has scheduled 10 informal gatherings for exchange of production information for the entire day of 20 April in the Hotels McAlpin and Governor Clinton.

Formal sessions for the presentation of pertinent technical papers will be held 22 and 23 April in the Hotel Statler. On 24 April the United States Air Force will escort SAE members through the Arnold Engineering Development Center at Tullahoma, Tenn., to see engine test and gas dynamics facilities and to inspect the propulsion wind tunnel.

The meeting is sponsored by SAE Aircraft, Aircraft Powerplant, Air Transport, and Production Activities with the cooperation of SAE Metropolitan Section. General arrangements are in charge of a committee headed by Rudolph F. Gagg, Roy T. Hurley, president of Curtiss Wright Corp., Wood-Ridge, N. J., is sponsor and Dr. Michael Field of Metcalf Research Associates chairman, of the Aeronautic Production Forum.

Mundy I. Peale, president of Republic Aviation Corp., will be the principal speaker at the dinner to be held 23 April. Admiral DeWitt C. Ramsey, president of the Aircraft Industries Association of America, Inc., will be toastmaster.

Advertisers in the Army Navy Air Force Journal support the Armed Forces and are familiar with their requirements.

Industry Aids AF Plane & Equipment Maintenance

The extent to which private industry will aid the Air Force in maintenance of aircraft and related equipment was outlined this week by the Air Materiel Command at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio.

Officials of AMC's Maintenance Engineering Directorate said that 21 per cent of the depot maintenance workload is contracted out to industry and that by fiscal year 1955 this should increase to about 43 per cent.

The statement amplifies a remark made recently by Maj. Gen. William H. Turner, AMC's deputy commander, in an address before the National Security Industrial Association's Washington chapter. At that time, General Turner said the defense industry need not fear a sudden cessation of production when the Air Force reaches its goal of 143 wings; that contract maintenance will take up most of the slack.

The forecast was part of a statement on a new Air Force concept of operations in the maintenance field. Having economy as its objective, this concept includes the following points:

1. Reducing maintenance to an "as needed" basis.
2. Outlining the echelons of maintenance, that is, Air Force bases to accomplish organizational and field maintenance, contractors maintaining support type aircraft, and the eight Air Force depots maintaining only tactical type craft.
3. Making it possible for depots to fill their "fireman" role by setting up one-shift operations that can be expanded to multiple shifts in emergencies, and by setting up the more flexible "dock" type of operation as opposed to the long production line.
4. Placing responsibility for the initial overhaul of new aircraft and related equipment upon the prime manufacturer and his subcontractors.
5. Placing responsibility for administration of all maintenance contracts with AMC's six air procurement districts.

Need For Contract Maintenance

The Air Force's decision to contract for maintenance came as a result of the limitations placed on new government construction. With work space at maintenance depots already critically short, AMC expects this deficit to increase three times over the next two years.

As an example, the present need is for an estimated 10,300,000 square feet of aircraft space with only 4,600,000 square feet available. The resulting approximately five and a half million square feet deficit is being compensated, to some extent, by contracting out 26 per cent of the workload.

By 1955, AMC predicted, the five and a half million square feet deficit will have increased to 16 million square feet, and by that time it will be necessary to contract for 43 per cent of the workload to support adequately the mission of the Air Force.

In actual manhours, this means that aircraft contracts now are in effect for 5.3 million manhours out of the 20.3 million scheduled from 1 March to 30 June of this year. By fiscal year 1955, the Air Force, to keep its equipment in service, will have to expend approximately 50 per cent of total manhours for contract maintenance.

Two Approaches To Economy

Contract maintenance naturally has its price tag. In fiscal year 1952, for instance, $97,000,000 was spent for this purpose, and the bill for fiscal year 1953 will be about $147,000,000. In keeping with AMC's "More Air Force per Dollar" program, the next move was to cut that price to the minimum. It was found that the reconditioning specifications were written broad enough and high enough to take care of the worst airplane that might go through a reconditioning facility. As a result, a considerable amount of unnecessary work was being done on the "good" airplanes.

Maintenance engineering planners approached this problem from two angles: refining of reconditioning specifications, and adopting an "inspection and repair as necessary" type of operation.

Auto Owner's System Used

The second approach to economy stemmed from the general practice of the average automobile owner. Whenever he takes his car to a repair shop, he has it inspected and then contracts for the work.

To test this theory of "inspection and repair as necessary," a group of officers visited a contractor where two C-47s, which were known to be in good condition, were brought in for periodic reconditioning. Under the new system, a guide line was set up providing only that the aircraft must be capable of performing its mission efficiently and safely until the next overhaul period (based on a certain number of hours flown).

AMC personnel were assigned to assist the contractor in the physical shake-down and to decide what work would be done. Discrepancies were noted on an inspection sheet, including organizational and field maintenance which were not

AF Needs ROTC Teachers

The Air Force announced this week it had failed to fill its quota for professors and assistant professors in the AFROTC program. Officers with baccalaureate degrees who qualify as instructors are urged to submit applications as soon as possible.

Over 200 instructors in Air Science and Tactics complete their tour of duty at some 209 colleges with AFROTC detachments this July.

Colonels and Lieutenant Colonels are eligible for Professorial positions. Other field grade and company grade officers are eligible for Assistant Professor spots.

Research Chief To London

Col. Paul A. Campbell, director of research for the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine, Randolph Field, Tex., has received orders to the U. S. Embassy in London as the aeromedical assistant to the Air Attache.

A native of Indiana who took his medical degree at the University of Chicago in 1928, Colonel Campbell taught for a number of years before the War at his alma mater, at the University of Illinois, and at Northwestern. He is an ear, nose, and throat specialist.

Summoned to active duty early in 1941, Colonel Campbell joined the staff of the aeromedical school. After the War he went to Germany with an air staff intelligence team, to make an intensive study of Luftwaffe research.

One result of his mission was to bring a number of former German scientists back to the United States.

Returning to inactive duty in 1946, Colonel Campbell resumed his private practice in Chicago. He was associated with both the Presbyterian Hospital and the Wesley Memorial Hospital, and in addition served as medical consultant to United Airlines.

After the outbreak of war in Korea, Colonel Campbell was recalled to his former post at the Randolph Field institution.

Ruling on JAG Service

The policy which prohibits assignment of active establishment rated officers of the Air Force on flying status to the Judge Advocate General Department is also applicable to rated reserve officers not on extended active duty, the Air Force has advised its major command.

It was stated that rated reserve officers who hold mobilization positions and are assigned to the JAGD may request suspension from flying status under provisions of AFR 36-57. If the individual does not take this action, the Air Force said, he will be assigned other duties or will be relieved of his mobilization position.

AF Warrant Board

The Air Force will convene a selection board at the Pentagon on 4 May to consider warrant officers junior grade for promotion to chief warrant officer.

Eligible are all warrant officers who will have completed 10 years commissioned and/or warrant officer service before 30 June 1954.

The fully qualified method of selection will be used.

18th AF DCS, Personnel

Several new assignments are announced to the staff of Maj. Gen. Robert W. Douglass, jr., USAF, CG of the Eighteenth Air Force, with headquarters at Donaldson AFB, S. C.

Col. Owen G. Birtwistle will serve as deputy chief of staff for personnel, replacing Col. Robert N. Davie, recently transferred to the 464th Troop Carrier Wing, Lawson AFB, Ft. Benning, Ga. Lt. Col. John L. Harris will fill Col. Birtwistle's former position as chief of manpower and organization.

Other appointments are Col. Glynn B. Widner to serve as dental surgeon for the Eighteenth Air Force and Col. Cecil H. Childre as special assistant to General Douglass.

Industry and AF

The first two C-47's incurred no expense other than the physical shakedown and were found to need only a few minor items of organizational field maintenance. The third needed only a minimum amount of work at a nominal cost. Conclusions reached were that at least two aircraft could be reconditioned under this type of operation for the cost of one under the old system.

Though these two approaches have been tested only on cargo aircraft, their application to other types of airplanes appears justified. Since maintenance costs in the past have ranged from $25,000 to $35,000 to recondition the types of planes used in the tests, savings would run approximately $15,000 per airplane on the basis of two craft repaired for the price of one.
